PRIMARY CAUSE FINDING

FAILURE OF SIDE-SHEETING OF GASOMETER

AND SPARKS SET UP BY COLLAPSE

The conclusion that the primary cause of the explosion at the West Point works of the Hongkong and China Gas Company two months ago was the failure of the side-sheeting on the gasometer was the most important feature of the verdict rendered by the special jury at the formal conclusion of the inquiry at the Central Magistracy at 12.15 p.m. to-day.

The keen interest with which the inquiry, spread over seventeen hearings, has been followed in the Colony, was indicated by the crowded courtroom when the final proceedings opened.

Messrs. P. Tester (foreman), Mr. N. Drummond and Mr. L. Dunbar formed the jury, with Mr. E. W. Hamilton as Coroner.

Several recommendations were made regarding the inspection and sites of gasometers, and it was stated that the Jury rejected the theory that a missile was thrown at the holder.

MISSILE THEORY DISCOUNTED

The jury's verdict, in full, was:—
“We are satisfied that the body was that of Chela Ram and that the cause of death was shock following severe and extensive burns. We return a verdict of Death from Misadventure.

“The original cause of the disaster was an escape of gas from the holder, due to the failure of the side sheeting.

“The side sheeting failed from wastage due to corrosion.

“We lean to the opinion that the original ignition was caused by sparks from the tearing of the plates as the gasometer fell. We are of opinion that there was later a minor explosion in the watchman's hut and that gas did ignite No. 13, Chung Sing Street.

“We reject the theory that a missile was thrown at the gasometer and punctured it prior to the disaster.

GASOMETER PRACTICE.

“From the evidence placed before us we are satisfied that the gasometer was originally erected and subsequently maintained in accordance with the general practice of gas engineering. This practice, however, we are advised by expert witnesses, presages the life of a holder at 40 to 50 years without material examination. This may be satisfactory in temperate climates in cases where holders are reasonably isolated, permitting the safe dispersal of any leakage and here the pressure of a gas alone need be considered. We suggest that steps should be

TYPHOON DANGER PASSES

Recurves Up Formosa Channel

The typhoon of which warning was issued yesterday has, according to the Royal Observatory, recurred in a more northerly direction and is moving up the Formosa Channel. It was situated this morning close to the Pescadore.

The disturbance, which is of small dimensions, will not now affect the Colony. The No. 1 warning signal was lowered shortly after six o'clock this morning.

taken to set a higher internal maintenance, especially including periodical internal examination.

“We are pleased to record that after the disaster the steps taken by the Gas Company, Police, Fire Brigade, Ambulance and voluntary workers were commendably satisfactory and prompt.

G. C. H. COMMENDED.

“We are especially impressed by the manner in which the resources of the Government Civil Hospital were speedily mobilised to meet the rush of casualties and by the action of the Medical Officer in stationing someone at the entrance to the Hospital to administer opiates as patients arrived.

“We desire to express our deep sympathy with the relatives of the forty-two who are known to have lost their lives and with the forty-six who are known to have suffered injury in this disaster.”

Rothermere Gift To London

PARK IN MEMORY OF MOTHER.

London, July 12.

Lord Snell, Chairman of the London County Council, to-day formally opened the Geraldine Mary Harmsworth Park at Southwark, a new open space which is Lord Rothermere's gift to London as a memorial to his mother.

Lord Rothermere, in a speech, commented on the alertness displayed by the London authorities in acquiring, wherever possible, new open spaces in London's vast stretch of masonry.

He mentioned their recent acquisition of Shooter's Hill and the successful efforts by the authorities and the public to assure as a permanent boon to London's children, the immensely valuable Foundling Hospital site in Bloomsbury.—British Wireless.

Princess Shigeeko Teru, eldest daughter of the Emperor and Empress of Japan, has been sent to school as an ordinary pupil. The Princess is shown in white during a hike with classmates.

GENERAL STRIKE IN SAN FRANCISCO

LORRIES OVERTURNED: CITY GETS READY FOR "SIEGE"

MENACING SITUATION

San Francisco, July 12.

A general strike of all workers in the city appears certain to develop.

Complete paralysis threatens, and there are serious indications that another desperate outbreak of violence will occur.

The walk-out has already commenced on a big scale and isolated acts of violence against workers who have failed to join the sympathy strike have already occurred.

Over 4,300 teamsters, in accordance with the decision of the beginning of the week, downed tools early this morning and joined the longshoremen and maritime workers in the strike.

LORRIES OVERTURNED.

Lorry-drivers are being attacked and many lorriesloads of materials have been overturned and strewn about the roads.

Housewives are now preparing as if for a long siege, storing large quantities of tin foods and stocking up their larders with all necessities.

Motorists have begun to hoard petrol.

MILITARY PREPARE.

Another strike in sympathy with the longshoremen has occurred in an unexpected quarter. One hundred and twenty-five butchers, controlling the city's entire wholesale meat supplies, have struck work and left the slaughter-houses.

The tramway employees to-day voted by a majority of 700 to 78 in favour of a general strike.

BUTCHERS STRIKE.

The military in the city have been reinforced and with the National Guard are prepared for any emergency.

The atmosphere in the city is

WHY THE KING GAVE UP GOLF

Got So Damned Angry, Says Prince

London, July 13.

His Majesty the King gave up golf because, in his own words, he got so damned angry, said the Prince of Wales in a racy speech last night at the dinner of the Lucifer Golfing Society, of which he is Captain.

The Prince recalled the days, many years back, when he caddied for the King, who, he said, played quite a good game.—Reuter.

extremely tense.—Reuter.

A United Press message, copy-right, announces that the U.S. Army's proposed demonstration flight to Alaska, has been postponed until late July, owing to zinc difficulties experienced in caching supplies, as a result of the longshoremen's strike on the Pacific Coast.

Railway Washout Near Peking

FLOOD DISASTERS CONTINUE

Peking, July 13.

The embankment of the Peking-Suiyuan Railway has been washed out at several points by flood and traffic has been suspended until the damage is repaired.

At one point, scores of feet of rails were carried away by the floods, which were created by torrential rains.

The Hopei Provincial Government is organising flood prevention work on a large scale. The Yellow River and Luanho River continue to rise and threaten to create devastating floods.

The Hopei sector of the Yellow River has risen twenty inches since yesterday afternoon. Some dykes threaten to collapse.

In the Luanho River, thirteen junks are reported to be missing, while twenty-two persons are known to have been drowned in the past two days. The motor transport system in the Luanlung districts has been completely paralysed by the flood. Scores of houses have collapsed or have been damaged in the flooded area.—Central News.

STAMPING OUT TERRORISM

AUSTRIAN CABINET'S NEW MEASURE

Vienna, July 13.

The new Cabinet has drawn up a Measure providing for a sentence of death for bomb-throwing or for the illegal possession of explosives.

The measure gives five days' grace for the surrender of explosives now in possession of people in Austria.—Reuter.

Germany's New Doctrine of Justice

HITLER'S WILL THE SAME THING

GOERING'S SPEECH TO LAWYERS

BEYOND ALL CRITICISM

Berlin, July 13.

“Justice, and the Leader's will are one and the same thing.”

This was the somewhat startling doctrine preached by General Goering, Hitler's right-hand strong man, to-night.

A demand for unconditional support for Herr Hitler and a warning against legal criticism of the Government's recent actions were made by General Goering, in the course of a speech to a special gathering of Public Prosecutors and State Attorneys.

He emphasised that Herr Hitler was determined to create Absolute Order in a Nazi State.

It was the task of his (Goering's) hearers to defend the State in every way against all attacks, he declared, adding “Justice and the Leader's Will are one and the same thing.”

“This is the justice you must defend,” he proceeded.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

General Goering promised to back personally those officials who did their duty and to deal ruthlessly with those who did not.

The action of the State's leaders on June 30 was “the highest realisation of the best feeling of Justice,” and had now been legalised, so that no quarter was entitled to subject it to a critical test.

NO RESPECT FOR PERSONS.

They must keep the clean atmosphere, which the Leader's act had cleansed as they must as without respect for persons as the law provided and as the leaders of the State provided.—Reuter.

THREAT OF NAVAL ACTION

NORWAY'S PREMIER'S ASSURANCE

Oslo, July 12.

Alluding to the British representations following interference with British trawlers in the fishing grounds off the Norwegian coast, the Premier, Mr. Mowinkel, points out that Norway has always maintained territorial waters to the extent of four miles from the shore.

He stated that the Norwegian Government had now sent a reply to the British Note, in terms which he believes will facilitate a friendly settlement.

The British Government yesterday threatened to furnish naval protection to British trawlers if interference with them in international waters was not stopped.—Reuter.

PRINCE GEORGE'S TOUR

London, July 12.

Fourteen social service clubs and occupational centres in North Staffordshire were to-day inspected by Prince George, who travelled by air from Hendon to Stoke City aerodrome.—British Wireless.

LISBON CAR SMASH

PRESIDENT'S WIFE BADLY INJURED

TERRIFIC IMPACT

Lisbon, July 12.

Madame Carmona, wife of the President of Portugal, was seriously injured to-day in a shocking motor-car smash outside the capital.

Madame Carmona was motoring with her married daughter and her grand-children when they became involved in a violent collision with another car.

The impact was terrific. Every occupant of both cars was injured, being pitched forcibly in all directions.

Madame Carmona was among the most critically injured of the victims. She was removed from the wreckage and rushed to hospital in an unconscious condition.—Reuter.

DOG-BITE WAVE CONTINUES

FOUR NEW CASES YESTERDAY

RABIES PERIL

In an official police report issued to-day, it is stated that two bitches which had come into contact with a dog, which has since died from rabies, have been isolated for purpose of observation.

The diseased animal belonged to Mr. G. A. V. Hall, of No. 7, Norfolk Road, Kowloon Tong. One of the two other animals now placed under observation also belongs to Mr. Hall. The other is the property of Mr. Hardwick, of No. 2 Norfolk Road.

While delivering a letter at No. 1 Robinson Road, the home of Mr. Wilkinson, Li Ping-guen, a postman, was bitten by Mr. Wilkinson's dog. The postman is receiving treatment at the Government Civil Hospital, while the dog has been removed to the depot at Kennedy Town.

FURTHER CASES.

Fresh New Skin 3 Shades Whiter

In Three Days

The difference between a coarse, rough, ugly skin and a fine, soft, smooth skin is due to the difference in the size of the pores. Thousands have enlarged pores and do not know it. Every enlarged pore is a trap for dirt and bacteria. Every enlarged pore is a trap for dirt and bacteria. Every enlarged pore is a trap for dirt and bacteria.

Any woman can have fresh and delicately moist but not greasy, equally adapted to oily skin. Crème Tokalon Skinfood (white colour) gives indescribable new skin beauty and freshness in 3 days—such as can be obtained in no other way. It should be used every morning. If your skin is wrinkled and aged-looking you should also use Crème Tokalon Skinfood (rose colour) at night. It nourishes and rejuvenates your skin while you sleep.

YOUR CHILDREN. Burdening A Child Beyond Capacity

By Olive Roberts Barten

Dr. Douglas A. Thom, director of the habit clinics of Boston and director also of Mental Hygiene in the Department of Mental Diseases of Massachusetts, in his new book, "Guiding the Adolescent," refers among other things to "educational pitfalls."

The words caught my eye at once. "Educational Pitfalls."

Contrary to what I had expected, Dr. Thom explains that these are the various kinds of failure in the older child to cope with the high order of study expected of him.

I had in mind the conflicts arising from trying to fit the newer and broader vision in education to-day to narrower home tradition. Newer ideas of religion, of government and so on, which I do think cause much perplexity—learning one way of looking at things at home, and another at school. Who is right, the child wants to know.

But Dr. Thom bears harder on the other trouble, the fact that many children who do well in lower grade work and themselves up against a real impasse in high school, while parents attribute this failure to laziness or indifference.

Reasons for Failure

To go over some of the pertinent points, he explains the various reasons of failure.

First, some children are physically incapable of applying themselves to school work more than five or six hours a day, while others can concentrate on lessons for ten or even twelve hours a day without fatigue. I am not quoting directly, but paraphrasing his ideas.

Second, very many children find themselves pushed along, and when they enter high school have no real preparation for meeting their tasks. I think this is very important. Not only is there too little foundation for the sudden jump into scholastic work, but the habit of concentration has never been acquired.

The third point I have left until last because I believe it to be the most important—mental immaturity. Dr. Thom stresses the point.

Authorities on mental calibre agree that comparatively few adults have really adult minds, meaning that perfect development up to the chosen unit of standard is not always reached. It would take a long list of tables to explain this, but suffice it to say that each one of us has our "mental age."

Some even go beyond accepted standard, but many stay below. This does not mean that these latter are morons or odd or abnormal in any way. Often the reverse. Intelligence is a matter of width rather than height and the genius in one line may be stupid in another.

Show Mental Growth

Some children, too, delay mental completion until they are older. This is why I like the idea of a year or two of work before

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Get in Shape for the Beach Via Diet, Exercise and Massage

By Alicia Hart

Reports about the popularity of the Mac West type of figure notwithstanding, bathing suits—particularly the 1934 varieties that are brevity personified—aren't flattering to girls who are overweight. The beach is one place where a woman should weigh neither too much nor too little. So, with these ideas in mind prospective bathers should check up on their weight before they start out to buy a new swim suit.

Underweight girls have less of a problem on their hands than those who are overweight. Let us, to-day, then, concentrate on ways and means to lose these few excess pounds.

Remember, first of all, that reducing the amount of food you eat each day is a fine way to begin. As a matter of fact, many women lose weight without eliminating a single item from their daily menus. They simply eat a little less of everything. However, if you want to speed up the procedure, cut down on sweet and starchy foods and do daily exercises.

If exercises bore you or if you find that you haven't time for them, there are new reducing gadgets with which you can massage away fat on arms, legs, thighs and other parts of the body that are overweight. Easy to use at home—and on yourself—they are very helpful to the woman who wishes to reduce in spots or to one who wants to keep her muscles and skin firm while she is losing weight.

COOL, DECORATIVE IDEA

Huge pictures with pretentious-looking frames have no place on walls in the summer time. If you feel that walls without any decoration are much too bare, hang up small prints. Inexpensive floral prints and small etchings in rather frail, dainty frames are suggested. But use them sparingly. Five or six should be enough in a living room while dining and bedrooms can do with even less. Heavy tapestries and wall hangings must come down too. With the windows open so much of the time, they'll collect too much dust and, in addition, they make a room seem overcrowded and too warm for comfort.

The tone quality of the modern Portable Gramophone has been improved to such an extent, that, in the higher priced models it is in every respect equal to the tone quality of expensive cabinet machines.

We now stock three of the leading makes --- VICTOR, DECCA and H.M.V.

These machines incorporate the latest ideas in 'portable' construction and are thoroughly reliable. Decca Model, No. 115 is fitted with a double spring motor and is capable of playing both sides of a twelve inch record without rewinding.

SOPHIE KERR'S LATEST SUCCESS IN ROMANTIC PROBLEM FICTION. "STAY OUT OF MY LIFE!"

CHAPTER I (Continued).

"It's so dull in this town," Jane complained, "the same old people year after year and everybody knowing everything about everybody else." She thought of Ann Veronika. "I wish I lived in London. I'd work at something or invent something."

They had reached the courts. "You might invent a way to teach me your underhand serve," said Amy. She dropped her racket, tightened the net, got the balls out of the bag while Jane looked on. That was Jane's way. When everything was ready she took the shady side of the court and the game began.

Jane was by far the better player, but if she missed a stroke it tumbled her and made her miss the next. Amy played steadily, evenly, and as if she enjoyed it. As soon as the score mounted against Jane she was frantic, smashed her serves, tried to kill every return, declared balls out that were in and turned the game into a fight. Her voice went high and her cheeks scarlet. It made Amy ashamed for her. "It's always like this," thought Amy, distressfully. "I'll have to let her win to calm her down."

So she began to slam her own serves into the net, to miss the easiest returns. After two love games Jane's mood was normal, even superior. "You must be getting tired," she said amiably. "Oh, no. Just a streak of bad luck. I might get you yet," said Amy. "Jane's so silly," she thought. "She never will play for the fun of playing. It spoils things so to get mad if you lose." That was why she had wanted to go for a walk instead of playing tennis. It was easier to be with Jane when they were not doing anything competitive. For her secret satisfaction she allowed herself one good rally, but this time Jane became so hostile that Amy was sorry she'd done it. Again she let her game go down and Jane beamed with triumph. When they had played three sets it was she who suggested that they stop.

"Let's sit down and cool off," she said. "I want to fix my hair, too." "I'll tell you what's the matter with your game, Amy," began Jane, readjusting hairpins. "You don't study the placing of the ball. You just try to get it over the net any old way."

"This was too much for Amy. She flung back her head and began to laugh. She simply couldn't help it. Jane stared at her. "What's the matter? I didn't say anything funny."

"No, I just happened to think of something." She must divert Jane quickly. "I wonder who that man is coming out of the Museum. Look—in the brown suit."

They both looked. The man was young, tall, square-shouldered. Even from a distance he suggested good tailoring and competent personality.

"Somebody to see the eminent Elliott's gold bricks, I suppose," said Jane. "She watched the young man as he walked slowly down the street, looking about him as if to locate himself. There was something familiar about him. She felt she must know him, at least have seen him before. Then she remembered Ann Veronika and her lover. Why, this man was like Capes, the tall, blond, ruddy Capes. "He's awfully good-looking," she said.

"He is rather nice," agreed Amy. "Now there it is," grumbled Jane. "If an interesting man does come to town he calls on old Elliott and goes through the Museum and then he leaps right off again. Nobody meets him."

"The next time we have Professor Elliott to dinner I might tell him not to be so stingy with his visitors, but to remember that this town is full of beautiful, bored young women thirsting for new experiences. I wonder what he'd say?"

"He'd go pop-eyed. And your father would call you down." She was still watching the young man who stood hesitating at the corner of Jane's street. Amy followed her glance. "Let's go along and take a look at the handsome stranger," she said. "Maybe he's pug-nosed and cross-eyed close to, and that'll resign us to not meeting him." As she spoke she knew that she was voicing the wish in Jane's mind.

"Very well, if you want to," said Jane, assuming indifference but rising instantly.

They were equally tall, slender and straight but Amy, though a year younger, had the more mature, more quiet bearing. Jane was restless, self-conscious, always adjusting her belt, her hair, holding her hands and elbows stiff, watching to see if she was observed. Amy was thinking of Jane's manner as they walked along, wishing that she wouldn't take games so hard and be so tense and so unhappy and yet, with it all, so superior. She knew that it was these traits that made Jane unpopular with their own crowd and she had a shrewd notion that if Jane were more popular she would be much happier. None of the other girls would bother with Henry Berwyn and, though Jane might say it was because he supplied her with cigarettes, Amy felt that it was more probably an effort on Jane's part to have as much attention as anyone else.

"And yet she's so beautiful," thought Amy. "When she's having a good time she's so beautiful she puts out the rest of us. And she dances well, and she's clever. But I'm the only one who really is fond of her. I suppose it all comes down to her being an orphan."

She thought of her own easy, close-bound family with a warm tinge of appreciation. Yet honesty reminded her that it was most unlikely, even if Jane had a mother and father, that she'd be much more attached to them than she was to Miss Rosa.

"Where'd he go?" Amy asked aloud. She had been thinking so hard that she had forgotten to watch the stranger. "Why, he vanished away like a boojum. Isn't that queer?"

"He must have gone down Audubon street. That would be toward the hotel if he's staying at the Reeder," said Jane in an odd, stifled way.

"He might have called in somewhere. Let's see. The Dowlings, the Gates, the Purdys, the Morelands—well, there's no sign of him and we can't very well do a house-to-house search. He is lost and gone forever, Clementine. Jane, do you think Miss Rosa would let me have her 'Songs of Three Centuries'? There's a poem in it about dancing a saraband and I'd like to compare the meter with an old dance I dug out from Mother's music. It would be fun if the poem and the dance were the same rhythm."

"I'll ask her when she comes home," said Jane, hurrying on. "Maybe she's home now. I'll just stop and see."

"She couldn't be home yet. She was going calling after the tea. I'll call you up this evening or I'll bring the book over."

It was a dismissal. For some reason Amy could not fathom Jane was trying to get rid of her. Amy was used to Jane's odd ways but this was too much. "I'll call up this evening and ask Miss Rosa myself," she said. "And the next time you don't want me to come in with you just say so, and don't make excuses that a child could see through. I'd much rather you'd be rude than tricky."

Jane was just starting to dash into the house but she stopped, startled by Amy's sharpness. Then she flung her arms around her friend and gave her a hard, excited hug. "Don't be cross," she said breathlessly. "I'll call you up this evening. I must find out—it's so queer—and she ran up the steps before Amy could answer."

Amy went on, swinging her racket and smiling in spite of her feelings. No use being offended with Jane's childish mysteries and changeableness and jumping about. Besides, if she hurried she would be able to practice a little while before dinner. She turned her racket and strummed it like a banjo, humming under her breath. Presently some one came running after her and she glanced around to see Edgar Moreland.

"What's the rush? Who've you been tennis-ing with?"

"Jane." Edgar shrugged. "I was just going to say that I'd like to have been along, but not with Jane. The last time I got roped into a doubles with her was the last time. What I mean is it was the last time! Never again."

"You mean, it was the last time?" she mocked him.

"Don't be picky." Though she was tall, Edgar was tall enough to grin down at her. "Lord, but you look lovely to-day. There's something about you, woman, that's unique and priceless. And yet behind that peerless countenance there lurks no modicum of common sense. Otherwise you wouldn't be so thick with Jane Terry. And, speaking of Jane, who's the young man who's calling on her?"

"I don't know. Calling on her when?"

"Right now. I came home just when he went up the steps and I wasn't five minutes later when I saw you going down the street and I galloped out after you."

"What did he look like?"

"He was tall and fair and very handsome. Not so handsome as I am, of course."

"Did he have on a brown suit?"

"He did. And a straw hat. I can offer you no data on his shirt, socks, or tie, as I was not close enough to get the details."

It all clicked together, the man, the time, the place.

"I don't know who he is," said Amy. "I saw him coming out of the Museum and walking toward the Terry's. It must be the same man. So that's where he went."

Jane, of course, had seen him enter. "That was why she hurried so and wouldn't let me come in," thought Amy. It was typically Janeish.

"That's where he went, and little do I think of his taste. But maybe he was calling on Miss Rosa and, if so, okay," said Edgar. "Listen, am I coming to see you to-night or is Vanny or Bill Hobart or who?"

"I'll think it over and send out a bulletin," said Amy and went on into her own home. That silly Jane! The man was probably a book agent.

(To Be Continued.)

Modelled after Professor Piccard's famous stratosphere balloon, this great sphere is going down, not up. More than 30 feet in diameter, the big ball, shown above, was constructed by M. Georges Claude, the French scientist, to plumb the ocean depths. It is expected it will descend to a depth of more than 2,000 feet.

Rumbling in perfect formation through Moscow's great Red Square, this was the impressive sight witnessed by hundreds of thousands as a squadron of amphibious tanks passed the reviewing stand in a recent Russia's display of military might.

Signor Mussolini may have said that the place for Italian women is in the home, but that doesn't prevent the fair sex of his realm from keeping in step with Fascism. Smartly clad in their black and white uniforms, the well-drilled women's section of the Balilla here is shown marching proudly down a Roman thoroughfare during a recent celebration.

A WORMING TEST.

"I should now like to inform you that I am more than satisfied with the results of 'SALCA'. It is marvellous and no mistake. Having fed eleven Greyhounds with 'SALCA' and one without, I gave them a fair test in worming them out with the following result—one had worms and eleven had no worms or any form of worms at all."

DO YOU KNOW WHEN YOU ARE REALLY HAPPY

the end of her long life she believed her happiest days to have been those spent slumming—disguised as an old woman—among the poor of Paris, learning how the submerged tenth lived.

Louis Philippe, away from his unstable throne, a private citizen again, wanted but the approval of his devoted wife, regarding the general course of his career, to be quite happy. What the world chose to think did not matter.

If it were only given to us at the onset to sense the happiness of small joys! I remember, how happy I was buying out of my own first earnings a suit of clothes. Dame Madge Kendal, I fancy, was never so happy as when, a child-player, catching sight of her nurse in the pit, she exclaimed, across the footlights, "Oh, nurse, look at my new shoes!"

Rachel, the famous French tragedienne, who from singing in the streets rose to great fame and fortune, used to say that her happiest moment was when she was tricked out with a red velvet hat of her mother's own making.

THE OBVIOUS MORAL.

Alas! only when viewed in the prism of the years do these tiny joys take on their real significance, and are seen to belong to the pleasantest days of our existence: it were wise to draw the obvious moral—to make the most of the substantial present, gratefully enjoying the simple pleasures which

"TELEGRAPH" ART SUPPLEMENT

More Competition Pictures

A further batch of Competition photographs will appear in to-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement, including some of marked artistic merit.

In addition, there will be other interesting pictures, including Church of Christ in China delegates at a visit to the grave of Dr. Robertson Morrison, in Sincan, and a bridal group at the wedding of Mr. Henry Wing and Miss Josephine Chan.

Portraits of successful candidates in the Trinity College of Music examinations will also appear.

lie to our hand. If we ignore the present, and concentrate wholly on the future, the chances are that we shall miss the happiness which is close by, and come no nearer the happiness which hangs tantalisingly ahead.

I have watched the countryman at his lunch of bread and cheese, washed down by a mug of beer, and I have said to myself: "He is happier than you are, because his wants are fewer." Through the years I have learnt that I am richer in peace of mind, not when I have striven to increase my possessions, but when I have limited my desires. Certainly a bunch of Cornish violets has proved a more gladsome sight for me than any elaborate orchids plucked from a nobleman's conservatory.

Step by step I have come to this philosophy of life (against which admittedly, being human, I sometimes transgress)—to be thankful for small mercies, for in them the real seeds of happiness are contained. Whatever one's lot, I am convinced, these small mercies are not withheld.

WRONG COMPARISONS.

In the cold and the wet, when there are few familiar voices to dispel his loneliness, a blind mendicant, for whom I have a sentimental regard, tells me he thinks of the days when the warm sun is on his face, and regular friends stop to entertain him with the small change of their remarks, and then he remembers how happy those days were. Standing by his side, frequently I feel myself rebuked by his far finer spirit, grieved to be reminded that, when in trouble I compared my state, it was not with his, but with that of men, whom the world counted fortunate.

Poor Charlotte Bronte, an inspired schoolmistress in whose stern soul romance twice took root, in her last hours knew when life had been kindest to her. "I am not going to die now," she whispered to her husband. "He will not separate us—we have been so happy!"

Life may seem to drop into solemn or uneventful periods, yet what could be more foolish than to fritter away those seemingly dull days by hungering for more exciting spells? It may well be that in retrospect they are found the happiest intervals of all. Time, dropping the scales from our eyes, corrects our values.

KOWLOON RESIDENTS ASSOCIATION.

PRIVATE PRACTITIONERS AND MATERNITY CASES

The usual monthly meeting of the Kowloon Residents' Association took place in St. Andrew's Hall, Kowloon, last Monday evening, occupying the chair.

Members of committee present at the meeting were Mr. H. F. Bunje (Vice President) Mr. R. P. Phillips (Hon. Treasurer) Mr. C. M. Hall (Hon. Secretary), Messrs. W. Goldenberg, C. M. Manners, R. Pestonji, B. Wylie, H. F. Un, C. E. Terry, I. Murray, W. J. Rattey, Lam Ming Fan, E. Kern and Lt. Col. E. D. Matthews.

Apologies for absence were received from Messrs. T. B. Wilson, Li Chor Chi, F. C. Mow Fung and Rev. E. L. Allen.

Correspondence with reference to Street Watering, Refuse Removal, Chatham Road and Cox's Road Playgrounds, Postal Facilities, Proposed Amusement Park on Railway Reserve ground at Hung Hom, Kowloon Bus Stops, was read and approved.

It having come to the knowledge of the Committee that the Maternity Block at the Kowloon Hospital was poorly patronized, it emerged from discussion that cases still continue to be sent to Hongkong, where the hospitals permit the attendance of the patient's own physician.

It was decided to write to Government, asking that private practitioners be allowed to visit the Ward, which would result not only in an increase in its popularity, but also in relieving to some extent the pressure on the present inadequate staff of the Hospital.

Street Watering.

A communication was received from the Colonial Secretary under date of June 21, 1934, replying to the Association's request for a resumption of street watering in Kowloon, stating that Government does not feel justified, at present, owing to present financial stress, to incur the heavy expenditure which this service would involve. The matter of a further reduc-

PLAYGROUNDS FOR THE POOR

In opening the Wanchai children's playground, the Hon. Sir Thomas Southern expressed the hope that the day would come when every child in the Colony would have a place in which to play, free from danger to himself and others. That day, we fear, is a long way off; it may never come. None the less, there has in recent years been a distinct quickening of public interest in the provision of open spaces for the masses, and the progress already made in this direction engenders even greater hopes for the future. Happily, in the Colonial Secretary we have a high Government official who is heart and soul in the movement and who has played no small part in the activities which have resulted in the laying down of six playgrounds during the past five years. Mr. J. L. MacPherson, also, has shown characteristic energy and enthusiasm in the project. But, gratifying as the progress has been, there are, as Sir Thomas Southern has pointed out, thousands of children who remain unprovided for. The system at present in force is for the Government to provide the plots, leaving it to the Children's Playground Association to equip and maintain the centres. The burden is, however, a heavy one for the Association, which requires at least $450 per month to carry out its work effectively. This is on the basis of the existing six playgrounds; obviously, it will need even more money as and when fresh playing-fields are opened up. There is even now an urgent need for funds. Many of the sporting institutions of the Colony have helped by joining the Association, but the number of individual subscribers is lamentably small. When it is considered what a boon these playgrounds are for the poorer children of the Colony, for whose enjoyment so little is done, there should be no difficulty in maintaining a regular yearly income enabling the Association to function without the need of having to worry over finances. If there are residents who desire ocular proof of the need which these playgrounds serve, we commend a visit to the Wanchai centre, where during any evening hundreds of children can be seen making use of the facilities with unbounded enjoyment. But, as we say, only a beginning has so far been made; so much remains to be done. The great need at the moment is more money. We commend the movement to all who have at heart the welfare and happiness of the poor children of the Colony.

NOTES OF THE DAY PEACE THROUGH FEAR?

Amid "wars and rumours of wars," many are striving to make real to the world the horrors of war by drawing pictures of gun attacks from the air that will smother our homes and our children, of paralytic of supplies, of starvation, and of penitence. The purpose of these pictures is to elicit fear to help the cause of peace. Mr. Nikola Tesla has now added his quota with the promise of a horrible death ray which he intends to place at the disposal of all governments. The idea is that it will be so deadly in effect that none dare risk its employment against them and their people. The world would do well to refuse fear as an ally. Fear's advice to man is negative, telling him to refrain from doing what inclination bids him do, whereas constructive thought and action are the need of the day. Example of fear are seen in every field of material invention and in social history. Another characteristic of fear is its effect of difficult situation the first necessity is to be able to appreciate correctly what is the right course to pursue, but it is notorious that fear warps the judgment, giving a strong bias against the course which it elects to believe unsafe. For this reason, in any venture no one willingly would choose as leader a man known to be apprehensive of the outcome.

THE ETERNAL DELUSION

What has been said of the experience of individuals is equally true of international affairs. Fear operates to prevent confident and constructive acts and to lead judgment astray. To encourage fear is to forge a weapon that is likely to prove more enemy than friend to peace. There can be no doubt that the general sense of fear and disquiet played a very large part in precipitating the last European war. The best that can be said for fear is that men sometimes avoid crime from fear of the consequences, yet even in this case it is worth noting that fear has done the man himself no good, for he still suffers from the delusion that the crime would bring him advantage, and, if at any time circumstances make him believe he can evade the consequences, he will commit it. Fear can no more produce peace than darkness can create light. Real peace can come only to a people whose thoughts and aims are peaceful.

MEASURING "IT"

Nobody or nothing has ever adequately defined "It"—but a dandy instrument has just made its debut which may cause riots in the feminine world. The "pashometer" is a complicated affair of positive and negative bulb lights, an infra-red ray passing between two lenses and a magic aluminium circle wherein one's figure reflection is caught by a photo-electric cell which registers the degree of intensity on a dial. It purports to register personality or "It," and is being demonstrated at a radio exhibition. Miss Jocelyn Howarth, the star of the Australian film "The Squatter's Daughter," registered 98 per cent. "It" on the machine, but she was beaten by a young Melbourne suburban matron who registered one hundred per cent. The Lord Mayor of Melbourne registered only 39 per cent, while the lady Mayoress, a daughter of Mr. Norman Brookes, the famous tennis star, showed, only 35 per cent.

THE JAPANESE TRUST

Lancashire cotton loom census reveals that while most other countries are reducing equipment, steady expansion is still proceeding in Japan and this process seems likely to continue. Japan's success in the World's trade in textiles may be summed up fundamentally in a word: organisation. When Japan went in for industrialisation, it already possessed this great advantage. For "the Hermit Kingdom" woke up in the 'sixties without sacrificing a feudal system. The State took the place of the lord in the allegiance of the Japanese—the State as personified in the Mikado. And it was the industrialisation of the country into industrialisation. There was no stage of industrial laissez faire. Several great families, despised merchants in the era of feudalism, were the agents of industrialisation. But, either through intermarriage with the old class or through the subsidy system, they gradually became indistinguishable from the State itself. Thus, before cartels were ever heard of, Japan had them. Before rationalisation became a new word in the language, the lexicon of Japanese business had a place for it. Japan, in the words of Mr. Arno S. Penrose, head of the Lancashire Cotton Federation, has developed into one huge trust.

DO YOU KNOW WHEN YOU ARE REALLY HAPPY

By BERNARD FALK

I am persuaded that we do not know when we are happy. It is a view with which I have found most people whose opinion I have sought to agree with me. An old friend, on whose ripe wisdom I set much store, expressed himself in this fashion: "We can no more tell when we are happy than we can be sure when the top of a Stock Exchange boom is reached." For most of us schooldays are probably the happiest period of our existence, when the simplest joys, such as an unexpected half-holiday, can put us on the best of terms with ourselves. Yet how few are the boys and girls who realise that with their innocent school-years are bound up innumerable golden hours which may never be recaptured! Courtship, marriage, the birth of a first child, early successes in one's calling—each is a landmark in a typical career which it is usual to associate with happiness, but until these chapters are part of life in the round we cannot distinguish genuine or illusory contentment. Were the necessary gift of discernment ours to command we should not so often mistake purchased pleasure for that more profound serenity of mind and spirit in which real happiness functions, and has its being.

MATERIAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Presumably for our good, happiness, it would seem, is only to be detected in retrospect, when its comfortable spell has passed, and, in contrast with other periods of life, it is a shining memory over which, as we grow older, the mind has a fondness for lingering. If my experience has not been vastly different from the great majority, the occasions to ensure happiness are mostly governed, to the small extent only, by material considerations.

Take a typical instance, a weekend when I sit in the sunshine, perhaps in one of the public parks, to read for an hour or so an interesting book. Uncontrolled, my eye takes in the beauty of Nature's scenic effects—the green tracery of the trees, the floral riot of colour, the faint blue of the cloud-flecked sky. Follows a brisk walk that brings me with keen appetite to my meals. Perhaps I write some letters; do a number of odd jobs for myself; one way or another, at the end of the day, I am found deliciously tired in mind and limb, so that I fall off into a sound sleep, thereby rounding off a happy twenty-four hours.

I am conscious that a day has gone pleasantly by, but, however agreeable my feelings, I do not honour them with the title of happiness. That must be part of a later revelation. For a morning comes when I awake with a dull headache and everything to which I apply myself takes on a stale or lack-lustre aspect. My little universe is sadly out-of-sorts; I feel as old as the world itself. Then, regrettably, I think of the wonderful day I spent in the sunshine, among the flowers, and, for the first time, recognise how happy I was.

LEARNING BY CONTRAST.

We need, I am sure, the contrast between the bright and dull seasons of life to learn when true happiness was our portion. If existence ran on in one narrow channel, an uninterrupted flow of peaceful moods, we should never know happiness. How could we, deprived of the means of comparison?

Analysing my memories I see that I was happy, not when things went smoothly for any lengthy term, but when, pendulum-like, I was swung, backwards and forwards, for worry to mental ease. The relief of reaching calm waters after each storm was my nearest approach to definable happiness.

In terms of happiness the red-letter days in my life were not the showy months when tangible successes were won, or when I imagined I had attained some coveted objective. Striving, rather than succeeding, was the happier experience of the two, as now, so long after, I know to be the case.

I have no doubt that to have an aim in view, at once honourable and unselfish, creditable to both heart and conscience, and faithfully to pursue that aim, is, as so many poets have sung, to come as near to happiness as is humanly possible.

Perfect happiness I have never found; and I have yet to be convinced that it has fallen to the lot of any man. People who have boasted of being perfectly happy were victims of hallucination. That they felt themselves really happy is a matter of debate, for genuine happiness is unconscious happiness, realisable only, as I have already urged, in retrospect.

To remind ourselves we are happy is surely to threaten the peace of mind on which it is based, and, like happiness that is hotly chased, to find it receding before us. I may be wrong, but I speak from my own experience.

Happiness, I maintain, is oblivion of self and the passing hour. That is why men and women whose work is pleasing enough wholly to absorb them are happy; why, amongst other reasons, the religious and charitably-minded, who in goodly acts discover an engrossing occupation, are markedly happy.

Not until I retired and was faced with the prospect of idle leisure did I discover the extent to which happiness and hard work travel in harness. Foolishly I used to imagine the reverse—that only when one was quit of work was one happy. To-day I suppose it is true that I seek to be more industrious than ever.

FROM LITTLE JOYS.

Though the years had accumulated before the truth dawned on me, now I know that out of little joys the greatest moments of happiness are born. Like Addison, the famous essayist, I have been most contented in the company of a few select friends, overjoyed to share their conversation.

Nor have the exalted ones of this earth found that Glory's thrills offer them more satisfaction than the everyday pleasures which are the common privilege of the humblest of mankind. In the eve of her long reign, Queen Victoria was happy copying with still supple fingers a pattern of crochet-work, or listening with rapt ears while a novel of Marion Crawford was being read over to her.

Friends of the ex-Empress Eugénie have told me that towards

The Very Idea!

A LIFE OF CRIME

By Ed. Kelly, Public Enemy No. 1.

THE advantages of a life of crime are so obvious that it is a wonder that we did not take up the profession earlier.

We refer to the fact that we have to appear before Mr. Wynne Jones this morning in connection with a little unpleasantness with Inspector Saunders about our car.

As we have no money to pay a fine, we anticipate that we will at least not have to write for this column for the next fortnight.

You must come up and see us sometime, and bring some flowers, and beer, and cheese.....for the warders.

Actually, we would have taken up the life of a criminal much sooner in life if it weren't for the risk of accidents.

Another drawback is the hours you have to work, especially if you are a burglar.

It has been said that burglary is a safe job. This is untrue. On our first burglary we smeared the safe with gellignite, or "soup," as they call it in the trade, threw a match at it, and then went for a long walk. When we came to, there was a rather deep and ragged hole where the safe used to be, and that was all.

We advertised for the safe, without result. We suspect that some dishonest person had found it and kept it for a birdcage or something.

Burglars make very good husbands. Through constant practice they become adept at getting home at all hours of the night without bumping the furniture or arousing the goldfish. This annoys some wives.

As a matter of fact, any woman whose husband has got away with something without giving her the opportunity to nag him about it has a legitimate grievance, which should be a sufficient grounds for divorce even in Hongkong.

We think burglars are not fairly treated in this Colony. There should be a Kindness-to-Burglars Week.

Even if a man does break into the Chartered Bank vault, after all, it's not his vault. (Order!)

Then again, they have a very strict code of honour. When plucked, they never dump their buddies—(meaning, of course, they never rat on their cobbles).

This explains the term "Silence in the caught," which you have all heard at some time or the other.

Bag snatchers have a hard life. We know one poor chap who was doing real well about three years ago, but met with a frightful bit of bad work. He tried to snatch a bag from a woman and she hung on to it. He couldn't get the bag away from her, so he had to take the woman as well. Even then she still clutched it, and the finish up was that he had to marry her.

Now he's practically on the bread line. He works his fingers to the bone all day snatching bags, and she picks his pockets while he's asleep. Enough to drive a man to teetotalism.

This, by the way, provides us with a moral which will save any aspersion casting. Our character is crumbling slightly at the edges already, and we cannot afford to have any further damage done to it.

When you have made your money, quit the game and reform. Learn to play a harp. Become a tapper and live on the Peak. Start a campaign about Lower tram stations. Cultivate the company of a wealthy and distinguished people. Then, if you're ever feeling a bit penurious, you've got the stuff laid on.

Don't forget that retribution will overtake you. Take the case of our old pal Dillinger. In eleven hold-ups he managed to get about $400,000. He deposited it for safe keeping in the National Prudential Western Trusting and Commercially Rural Trust Fund and Banking Corporation Inc. The very next day a scoundrel of a manager robs Dillinger and a few other people of no account and leaves for Hongkong, where he became a broker and the bank is broke. From broke to broke.

Which just goes to show.... We mean to say that it proves beyond all shadow of doubt.....anyway, it just shows you. Don't it?

Ah, well! We suppose we'd better trot across to Kowloon and see our friend Mr. Wynne Jones now.

Don't forget. Flowers, and beer, and cheese.....For the warders!

COLONIAL FINANCE

PLEASANT PICTURE FOR COMMONS

SELF-SUFFICIENT IN MOST CASES

London, July 12. A glowing picture of improved financial conditions in the Colonies was given in the House of Commons to-night. Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Secretary of State for the Colonies, during the debate on the Colonial Estimates, quoted the cases of Uganda, Malaya, Gambia, the Gold Coast, Mauritius, Gibraltar, Gilbert and Ellice Islands, Cyprus and Kenya among a number of Colonies which a few years ago were drawing largely on their resources but who were now producing balanced budgets.

Sir Philip, referring to Ceylon, said that the Colony enjoyed an enormous advantage in having rubber and tea, representing two-quarters of her exports, covered by schemes designed to fix prices to a remunerative level.

TEA PROFITS.

The tea scheme, he said, had been working admirably. Not a single consumer had objected. Before the scheme, even the most efficient companies were losing money. To-day every reasonably managed company was making profits.

He recalled that in the Malay States, a deficit of nearly $11,000,000 in 1932 had been reduced to a deficit of $3,000,000, which was a remarkable achievement at a time when prices of some of the most important commodities were falling.

As regards rubber, it had taken the government a long time to get an effective scheme, but the present scheme was in such a state of administrative preparedness that within a few weeks of its announcement, it was possible to carry it out in all countries concerned.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT.

London, July 12. The Colonial Secretary, Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, referred to the marked improvement in the budgetary position of the great majority of the British Colonies when the House of Commons this evening went into Committee of Supply on the Colonial Office Vote. He said in the current year grants in aid of those Colonies unable to balance their budgets were reduced from £1,035,000 to £505,000. Among the Colonies which a few years ago were drawing on their resources to balance their budgets, and were now producing balanced budgets, he instanced Uganda, Gambia, Zanzibar, the Gold Coast, Mauritius, Gibraltar and Kenya. Others had largely reduced their deficits.

North Eastern Rhodesia had reduced its deficit of £170,000, to one of £20,000. Nigeria, with a deficit of over £1,300,000 in 1932, had reduced it to £335,000. The Federal Malay States had also largely reduced their deficit.

SALARY CUTS.

These results had been achieved, firstly, by drastic economies in the Estimates and the cost of administration, in connection with which he paid a tribute to the Colonial services for the way they had stood up to drastic cuts in salaries and had faced the difficulties of bad times.

The policy of establishing a preferential market for the Colonies in the Empire and for the Empire in the Colonies had worked extremely well, and encouragement of efficient production and marketing had also played its part.

Referring to various regulation schemes, he said, the tin scheme was in successful operation and the tea scheme was now working very satisfactorily.

RUBBER SCHEME.

With regard to rubber, they had to be satisfied that they had a scheme which was administratively possible and was elastic in its readiness to respond to increasing demand. They were also determined that they should have the scheme so fully worked out that action would follow immediately on decisions being taken. Such a state of administrative preparedness was reached that within a few weeks of the decision being announced, it was possible to carry it out in all the countries concerned.

KENYA PROBLEMS.

Referring to Kenya, the Minister said the Government approved of the recommendation of the Kenya Land Commission that large additions should be made to the native reserves. They also ac-

QUEEN'S THEATRE

NEW MANAGEMENT ON AUGUST 1.

The Colony's well-known entertainment centre, the Queen's Theatre, is passing into the hands of a new management on August 1. The new company, which has leased the theatre is Cinemas Limited, which was registered on Tuesday. Its registered offices are at Gloucester Building.

Incorporated under the Hongkong Companies Ordinance, 1932, Cinemas Limited has a capital of $100,000, divided into five founder shares of $10 each, and 9,995 ordinary shares of $10 each.

The directors of this new enterprise are Mr. Jose Maria Noronha, of No. 27 Ashley Road, Director of the Hongkong Amusements Limited; Mr. Liang Chihao, of No. 26 Victoria Avenue, Kowloon, Director of the China Entertainment Land Investment Company Ltd; and the Hon. Dr. Tso Seenwan, Director of the China Entertainment Land Investment Company Ltd, and Solicitor. The solicitors for the firm are Messrs. Deacons.

It is interesting to note that two of the Directors, Messrs J. M. Noronha and Liang Chihao, are interested in opposition theatrical enterprises, the Alhambra and King's Theatres.

According to the land titles at the Supreme Court, the Queen's Theatre is owned by the Yip Min Savings Mortgage Loan, and Land Investment Co. Ltd, the previous owner being Mr. Ma Tei-chiu.

When the theatre was leased in August, 1928, by Hongkong Amusements Ltd., a rental of $6,500 per month, plus $2,000 for furniture and fittings, was agreed upon. The lease was renewed in August, 1930 on the same terms.

Five Year Lease. Under the new lease, the rental is $6,500 per month, no mention being made of furniture or fittings. The lease will expire on July 31, 1937, but previously in certain events.

The Queen's Theatre, which has earned for itself the name of "home of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer 'first run' productions", will continue with that name, as Cinemas Limited has negotiated successfully for the screening of M. G. M. pictures.

Arrangements have also been made to include regular showings of British pictures, notably Gaumont, Gainsborough, British Lion, Twickenham and other well-known studios.

The Chairman of the Company is Mr. J. M. Noronha, who is well experienced in the requirements of cinema patrons, having been Chairman of Hongkong Amusements, Ltd. for a long period.

ANTUNG GALLANTRY REWARDED

Stanhope Gold Medal For Mr. H. E. B. Jones

London, July 12. The gallantry displayed by Mr. H. E. B. Jones, in helping to save the passengers of the C.N.C. steamer Antung, wrecked off Hainan Island on March 6, 1933, was rewarded by the Prince of Wales, as President, who presented him with the Stanhope Gold Medal of the Royal Humane Society at York House, along with an illuminated testimonial on vellum setting out the facts.

The Prince chatted with Mr. Jones for some time in regard to the incident and his experiences in China. It will be recalled that Mr. Jones rescued the captain's wife and daughter who fell into the sea when a boat upset.—Reuter.

NEW SHIP FOR ELLERMAN'S BRITAIN-AUSTRALIA SERVICE

London, July 12. An order for a 10,800 tons cargo vessel has been placed with Messrs. Cammell, Laird, of Birkenhead by the Ellerman Line. The new vessel will be 485 feet in length and will be fitted with twin screw steam turbines giving a speed of 15 knots. She will sail between Britain and Australia, carrying fruit and meat.—British Wireless.

Accepted the recommendation that the boundaries as extended should be defined by Order-in-Council, as that would give a much greater sense of security than the appointment of any Commission. With regard to the granting of mining leases, the commission recommended a method more convenient and more consonant with native sentiments and wishes. This recommendation the Government had accepted and had given instructions that an Ordinance should be introduced forthwith to enable mining leases to be issued in the way Commission themselves recommended. Legislation would be carried through as rapidly as possible.—British Wireless.

CORRESPONDENCE

Cadets and Consulates.

To the Editor, Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—Under the heading "Consulate Shortage" in your esteemed paper of to-day's date, I find that Sir John Simon has been or is under some difficulty in finding suitable men to fill vacancies in no less than three independent British Consulates in China, owing to death, illness or resignation.

I am of opinion that Sir John should not have been in any difficulty whatsoever in filling these vacancies when they occurred. In Hongkong, we have numerous Government Officials known as Cadets who are well-known for their extraordinary intelligence and ability. From certain Government records, you will find that the majority of these cadets are men who have taken some degree at Oxford, Cambridge or other well-known University and they are sent out to Hongkong after a very difficult examination before they are 24 years of age.

Within two years of their arrival in the Colony, you will find that in the majority of cases they pass what is known as their "final" examination in the Chinese language (a most difficult examination for foreigners) and within two years after this, and sometimes before, they pass what is called in Government language, the "law" examination (what this examination is I do not know). As soon as they have passed the latter examination, according to Government rules, they are at once qualified to administer justice in the various Police Courts in Hongkong and the liberty of the subject in all criminal matters is left in their complete power and control.

In my opinion, they are men of such exceptional intelligence that they are able, after only four years in the service, to take up any position as head or acting head of any department in the Government service, and to my own knowledge, they have also been appointed to various positions in the service which require special technical knowledge although they hold no proper qualification for such position. As I understand it, certain Sanitary Inspectors must pass certain examinations in sanitary law and practice before they can be appointed to such a position, but the Head of the Sanitary Department must be a Cadet without any qualification in sanitary matters.

In view of the above, do you not think, Mr. Editor, that instead of closing up to the three consulates in China as they appear to have done, no difficulty could have been experienced by Sir John Simon if he had only telegraphed to Sir William Peel asking him to transfer three of these valued cadet-officers to the diplomatic service without in any way having to close up the Consulates in question?

My own opinion of these Cadets is that according to the Government, they are able to take up any duties whatsoever which might be entrusted to them, although they may not have any technical or theoretical knowledge for any such posts.

Perhaps your readers will be good enough to let me know their views in connection with the above.

COMPETITION PHOTOGRAPHY

HINTS TO "TELEGRAPH" ENTRANTS

AN INTERESTING TALK

The first of a series of instructive talks under the auspices of the Hongkong International Photography Society was held in the South China Morning Post Board Room last evening, when Mr. P. A. Dragon spoke on Competition Photography with special reference to the Hongkong Telegraph's Amateur Photography Competition.

In the course of a most interesting talk, Mr. Dragon said:—"The main object of the management of the Hongkong Telegraph in holding this annual photographic competition is to stimulate interest in this very popular hobby, and thereby to improve the standard of amateur photography in the Colony and in the Far East, the Telegraph being the only paper in the Far East running annual competitions for amateurs in general, especially for those beginners who have not the privilege to belong to any club or photographic society. If we are to judge from the previous competitions, the first of which was held four years ago, the Telegraph is to be congratulated on what it has done."

Mr. Dragon went on to refer to past competitions held by the Telegraph and spoke of the handsome prizes now being offered. He proceeded to deal with the various Sections in the present Competition and offered valuable hints in regard to each.

ORIGINALITY DANGER.

Dealing with bathing and picnic pictures, he said:—"Originality of subject counts for much in competition photography. In fact, originality often scores, but just a word of warning. Last year the judges commented that most of the competitors attempted photographs from strange angles and that most of them missed their purpose completely. The moral is that if you may produce a picture that strikes the eye at first sight, but on gazing longer at the picture, the novelty wears off."

"Stunt photography is good but pictorialism (the appeal of the photo as a subject that can be hung on the walls of any room) is better. Strange angled photography is new-fangled photography, and like many new things may come into its own one day, so let us not entirely despise it, and if we try it let us not overdo it."

CHINESE STUDIES.

Referring to Section Three (Chinese Studies, Faces and Figures), Mr. Dragon urged competitors to deal with all types. He also uttered a word of warning in this connection, saying:—"Beware of the mistake of introducing Chinese, or something non-Chinese into the picture. I remember a prize winning picture of a scene in Kowloon City was passed over in favour of another less striking, simply because in the picture was a lady in European clothes and carrying a European parasol. If judges were to choose between two subjects of Chinese faces, one subject wearing a Chinese hat and dress, and the other, Western clothes, they would vote for the former."

"Following this argument, a Chinese street scene or village scene, may be ruined by the appearance of an English advertisement on the walls of one of the houses."

Dealing with Section Four (Views, including Architecture and Street Scenes), Mr. Dragon said:—"Here the beginner is apt to send in a topographical record rather than a picture. Our harbor, Hongkong by Night, our Race Course, are beautiful. Every newcomer to the Colony is lavish with praise over them, but how many of us who dwell in Hongkong and who are familiar with these scenes feel the same?"

"Avoid taking postcard views. Rather go in for the tit-bits of the Colony. In all your pictures—do not include too much. Study the work of well-known amateurs. In photographing landscapes or seascapes you will find that a part is better than the whole."

"There is also an inclination to label photos obviously taken at about three in the afternoon, 'Sunset'; perhaps 'Moonlight' would be a better title. In this section if you wish to win a prize, do not go in for hackneyed subjects. Sunsets have an appeal to all of us (I still photograph them myself) but as subjects for competitions, I think they are overdone. The same for junk studies."

SIZE AND KINDS.

In concluding his talk, Mr. Dragon said:—"Last of all come the question of the size of prints to send in for competition. Any size to suit your purse. In connection Gee Pin-sin, ironer, of Jackson Street, San Francisco, died on September 20, 1932, leaving local estate of $7,200. Letters of administration have been granted to Chin Shee, widow, and lawful attorney, for the use and benefit of Gee Chu, executor.

With the Telegraph competition I have been asked specially to emphasize the fact that every picture submitted, irrespective of size, receives due and careful consideration from the judges. Last year the judges spent over four hours judging the pictures, as they took the entries one by one and analysed them according to appeal of subject matter, to pictorial quality, and technique. Contact prints last year received awards, so if you cannot enlarge your pictures send in small prints.

"Of course, an enlargement catches the eye but a really good contact print in the eye of the judges stands a better chance because an enlargement can be controlled, whereas a contact print is not so easily controlled. In the printing process. As for paper to use, select the type that gives the best result. Glossy prints are not necessary, nor are titles, but a good title may turn the scale in your favour. Mounting is optional, but remember a mounted photo looks better. The same picture may be sent in for more than one section, but if this is done it is wise to send in duplicates as this facilitates judging and ensures your picture competing in the section for which you enter it."

"Do not send in a picture just because the picture pleases you. We have all some favourite pictures; they appeal to us because of their personal associations but they may not appeal to the judges. It is a good plan to seek the advice of some impartial friend, before sending in your pictures. If you have not yet started taking pictures and intend doing so, my parting word of advice is, learn to manipulate the camera and understand its movements and gadgets before making your first exposure. You are then on the way to success."

GOSANO BROTHERS AND BELTRAO TO JOIN RECREIO

Playing For Their Old Soccer Club Next Season

SERIOUS LOSS FACING ST. JOSEPH'S

POSSIBLE EXODUS OF MAJORITY OF THEIR LEADING PLAYERS

CLUB WILL CARRY ON AVERS MR. GOLDENBERG

A. V. Gosano, the genius behind St. Joseph's last football season, who is throwing in his lot again with the Club de Recreio.

Bernie Gosano, clever outside right, who has decided to follow his brother's footsteps, and play for the Recreio next football season.

THE Club de Recreio is to make a big attempt to return to its former glory in the Hongkong football league this coming season, and to this end, A. V. and Bernie Gosano, as well as Beltrao will be transferring affections back to their old-time love.

For two seasons the Recreio have been struggling to make bricks without straw, and have bravely stuck to the heart-breaking job of championship replay match with the Bordeners, will be hard hit, but it is expected that they will carry on.

The Saints, however, may be confronted with the problem of seeing other prominent players follow the Gosano's to the Recreio. Such a lead may well influence players like Marques, Gomes and Rocha to return to the club with which they learnt their football.

Certain it is the Portuguese will be a powerful team next season. They have already several young players who developed enormously last year and who maintaining a place in the first division with a "shadow" team.

But 1934-35 season promises to be a boom for the Portuguese club, which is assured of the assistance of the Gosano brothers, and Beltrao, while other erstwhile members of the Recreio, now with St. Joseph's, may throw in their lot again with the King's Park outfit.

The exodus of the Recreio's leading players in 1932 was due to differences of opinion between them and the committee's methods of management. These will be of inestimable value in the future. With the promised rejuvenation of the Recreio and South China, approaching football season should provide interest in plenty.

I asked Mr. Archie Goldenberg, manager of the St. Joseph's Club this morning if he had heard of the contemplated return of the Gosanos and Beltrao to the Recreio next season.

He replied that he had heard of it as a rumour but did not think any definite decision had been reached by the players.

ST. JOSEPH'S WILL CARRY ON

have now been smoothed over, and the club is contemplating a highly successful season.

"In the event of them leaving you, will St. Joseph's carry on next season?" I asked.

"Yes," replied Mr. Goldenberg, "they definitely will."

CYCLING TRIAL THRILLS

Stallard's Victory Over 68 Miles

P. T. Stallard (Wolverhampton) won the World's Cycling Championship Trial at Brooklands last month, when he beat J. N. Bainbridge (Liverpool) by the narrow margin of 1.5 sec. (six lengths).

W. K. Bicknell (Bath Road) was third, another three lengths behind, with A. O. Jones (Stockton) fourth. Stallard covered the 68 miles course in 2 hr. 57 min. 46 sec., averaging approximately 23 m.p.h.

Eighty-one riders started, but the hot pace set up by the leaders, who were travelling at 25 m.p.h., soon eliminated the stragglers, and punctures and crashes brought the field down to only 20 finishers. None of the crashes was serious, the worst case being J. K. Tatton (Wolverhampton), who was taken to hospital suffering from cuts and abrasions.

A FINE FINISH. Stallard and Bicknell broke away from the field at 11 laps and established a lead of 200 yards; but they were caught after two laps. Eleven riders remained in the leading group at the commencement of the last lap and, coming into the finishing straight with half a mile to go, L. J. Ross (Liverpool) was leading. Then Stallard made a supreme effort, jumped into a six lengths lead, and held it to the line. Of the 53 intermediate prizes Stallard won 11, E. A. Johnson (Belle Vue) 5, H. A. Paget (Bristol) 4, L. J. Ross 4, W. K. Bicknell 4, and the remainder were shared between 17 riders.

Last year's winner, J. J. Salt (Liverpool), retired before the finish, and another faded rider, C. Holland (Midland), punctured twice and finished 16th. Punctures also eliminated P. Wyld (Derby) and W. Harvell (Poole).

Result: 1. P. T. Stallard (Wolverhampton), 2 hr. 57 min. 46 sec.; 2. J. N. Bainbridge (Liverpool), 2 hr. 57 min. 47.1 sec.; 3. W. K. Bicknell (Bath Road), 2 hr. 57 min. 48 sec.; 4. A. O. Jones (Stockton); 5. F. H. Dean (Corranco).

CARNERA WANTS TO FIGHT BAER AGAIN

WINNER TAKE ALL: £10,000 SIDE-BET

New York, June 16. Carnera wants to fight Max Baer, who deprived him of the world championship in New York on these terms:

Winner to take all; and with a side bet of £10,000. Ex-ray photographs of Carnera's foot and leg show to-day that he was fighting his battle against Max Baer with a fractured ankle bone and a torn ligament.

The defeated champion says that he received the injuries when felled by Baer's savage opening attack.

He was never hurt by the punches, he says.

He saw every one of them coming, but a man cannot prevent himself from being pushed all over the place when he has only one leg.

Arsenal Adopt A Nursery

BRACING MARGATE SELECTED

Negotiations for Margate to be adopted by Arsenal "as a nursery" are now completed and signed. The agreement operates for two years and promising young players spotted by Mr. Peter McWilliam will be sent to Margate to be coached by a manager who will be appointed by Arsenal.

Margate will run two teams, one in the Southern League, Eastern and Central sections, and the other in the Kent League. Some of the Arsenal players may also train during the week at Margate instead of Highbury, to get the benefit of the bracing seaside air.

A number of well-known players have applied for the position of manager at Margate, and whoever is appointed will commence his duties at the end of the month.

BADMINTON

CHAMPIONSHIP MEETINGS

The dates for the four National Badminton championship meetings to be held in the British Isles during the 1934-5 season have been arranged.

The Welsh Championship meeting leads the way, and will be played at Llandudno from December 3 to 8. The Scottish Championships are fixed for January 17, 18, and 19, in Glasgow, and the Irish in Dublin from February 7 to 9. The All-England Championships will be held at the Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, from March 4 to 9.

The number of overseas governing bodies will be increased by the formation of the Badminton Association of India, and the Federated Malay States Badminton Association. These two new associations, it is understood, will affiliate to the International Badminton Federation when formed. It is curious that India has not had a Badminton governing body before now, for Badminton was first played in that part of our Empire in the early seventies, when that veteran sportsman, Colonel Arthur Hill, the President of the Badminton Association, was introduced to the game in 1871, at Calcutta.

DERBYSHIRE DO WELL

AUSTRALIANS SCORE 255

BRADMAN SCORES QUICK 71

London, July 12. Derbyshire performed creditably against the Australians to-day, dismissing them for 255 and scoring 74 for two in the second innings.

Nevertheless the county team is still 36 runs in arrears, and may have difficulty in saving the game.

Care-free batting by Bradman (71), Barnett (48) Woodfull (4) saw the Australian over his score advanced from 122 for 4, 255 all out.

SHANGHAI TENNIS PLAYERS

Beat Shameen Club In Close Match

Canton, July 12. A friendly tennis match was played between St. John's University, Shanghai and Shameen Lawn Tennis Club on the Shameen court yesterday. St. John's won the match by three rubbers to two.

MEN'S SINGLES.

G. Bodiker beat K. H. Wong 6-2, 6-3.
C. A. Wright beat A. C. Ma 6-4, 5-7, 7-5.
Y. S. Tong beat R. P. Newell 6-3, 6-3.

DOUBLES.

K. H. Wong & Y. S. Tong beat C. E. Watson & R. S. Walsham 6-3, 6-4.
E. Whitmore & G. E. Hamford 6-4, 6-3.

Bodiker had no difficulty in beating K. H. Wong, who appeared to be rather tired, and throughout the match gave very feeble services.

Wright would have secured his victory very much more easily had he played a less defensive game, since he was obviously the stronger and better player. "Red" Newell put up a hard fight, and was not beaten so easily as the score would give one to imagine.

DISAPPOINTING DOUBLES.

The doubles were disappointing, and it is pity neither Bodiker nor Newell played in the doubles. C. E. Watson and R. S. Walsham should have won their match, but Walsham was not playing carefully enough, and thus lost a number of points.

The players in the second doubles games were fairly evenly matched. The game being merely a friendly one Bodiker and Newell did not play in the doubles in order to give others a chance, though if the two champions had played there is no doubt that both doubles would have been won by Shameen.—Our Own Correspondent.

INTERPORT SWIM

Shanghai Invitation Accepted

At a meeting held at the Victoria Recreation Club last evening to consider the invitation of the Shanghai Amateur Swimming Association for a local team to be sent north for the renewal of the annual interport games between the two ports it was decided to form a selection committee of two representatives from the V.R.C. and one member each from the Clubs attending the meeting. It was also decided that any further Clubs joining at a later date would have to abide by the decision of the committee.

There were present at the meeting Mr. F. K. D'Almeida (chairman), Messrs. J. M. Alves, C. Rosa, Pereira, H. Hyndman, J. Ross and C. J. Cooke (V.R.C.), A. G. Donn (Y.M.C.A.), Lo G. Hin (Chinese Athletic Association), Leung Tit-tang (S.C.A.A.) and Lieut. Moon (Army).

It was stated that the invitation had been accepted and that Tien-tien and Yokohama had also been invited to take part in the interport events. The games would be held during the second week in September.

GIANTS DEFEATED

NATIONAL LEAGUE DOUBLE HEADERS

PLAYER INJURES ANKLE

New York, July 12. Three double headers were played in the National League to-day. The Giants had to share the spoils with the Pirates, while the teams finished a leg all in the other two encounters.

An accident to Paul Dean of the Cardinals greatly handicapped them in their second match with the Phillies. Dean injured his ankle in the third innings of the first match, and had to retire from the game.

There was a small programme in the American League, where the Yankees lost to Detroit, and Chicago Red Sox nosed our Philadelphia Athletics.

Kowloon Golf Club Summer Cup

COLLINGS' CARD OF 62

R. Collings (8) defeated S. MacNider (11) in the semi-final of the Summer Cup at the Kowloon Golf Club yesterday afternoon by scores of 4 and 3. By virtue of his win, Collings will meet R. Henderson in the final.

Yesterday's game produced some good golf. Collings' score being 34+36=70, making a net score of 62. Par for the course is 66. Collings only lapse was at the first hole where he had a six.

Up to the 14th hole where Collings was leading MacNider by four up, his score was 19, par for which is 18, and the match ended at the 16th hole, where both were down for par 3s.

MacNider's score was 38+39=77 (net 65).

PLAYING 180 HOLES IN ONE DAY

Golf wagers are in the air. Following the effort of Capt. R. F. H. Norman, who played 10 rounds of the Stoke Poges course non-stop in under 1,000 strokes, comes news of another long-distance attempt.

Mr. G. D. Morris, of Walmer and Kingsdown Golf Club, has accepted a challenge (believed to be £500) that he will play 10 rounds of 18 holes on the club's course in one day, averaging 90 strokes a round.

Bogey for the course is 72, so he will have to play to within 7 strokes of his usual form for the whole 10 rounds.

Sheffield Wednesday have transferred—T. Leach, their international centre-half-back, to Newcastle United.

Leach has been capped for England against Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. He has also assisted the English League against the Scottish League. The transfer fee is a big one.

Manchester United F.C. have signed on Thomas Jones, an outside left from Sheffield Wednesday, formerly with Tranmere Rovers. In 1932 Jones gained an international cap for Wales against Ireland.

H. E. The Governor will dine with the Volunteers as a guest of the Commandant, Lieut. Col. H. B. L. Dowbiggin and officers of the Corps, on July 20.

Richard, the younger son of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, will arrive here from home on the P. & O. liner, Ranpura, on July 25.

Although Macfarlane, led on the eighth head by 12 shots to two, Basto scored a remarkable recovery, and with two fours reduced the lead. He then went on to score regularly, and won by 21 shots to 17 on the 21st head.

Basto actually scored on one head less than his opponent, but he registered two fours and one three to his opponent's one. The winner finished the match by laying two.

A. E. Contes, of the Craigengower Cricket Club, defeated his fellow clubmate V. F. Field on the Civil Service green by 21 shots to 13, on the 17th head. Contes scored on eleven heads, registering one four, while Field scored on six heads with one four.

L. A. Gutierrez, a former singles champion, defeated J. J. Basto by 21 shots to 8 on the Craigengower Cricket Club green. The match terminated on the 18th head, with the winner scoring on 12 heads with two threes.

In a tie in the Pairs championship, B. Basto and J. E. Noronha defeated W. E. Hollands and J. J. Gregory by 19 shots to 12 on the 21st head. The winners registered a four and a three, while the losers obtained one three.

The winners scored on 13 heads and the losers on eight.

Owing to the fact that Mr. W. C. Simpson is in hospital, the match between him and W. Gill in the singles bowls championship, arranged for yesterday afternoon, has been postponed.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CRICKET HUNDRED STRONG ELEVENS

Although the elevens of Eton, Harrow, Clifton, Tonbridge, Rugby, Marlborough, Cheltenham, and Harewood, who meet every year at Lords, with those of Winchester, Uppingham, Sherborne, Charterhouse, Dulwich, and Brighton in the past have generally been recognised as the strongest of the schools sides, this year there are a number of other schools, including Birkhamstead, Aldenham, Hurstpierpoint, St. Pauls, Bedford, and Wellington, with elevens almost as good. This season over one hundred excellent schools elevens are playing two matches each week, so it is not surprising that a record number of new young players have been discovered by the

COUNCIL ELECTED BY NOMINATION

YESTERDAY'S ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

SIR THOMAS SOUTHERN AND UNRULY CONDUCT

A loss of nearly $3,000 was reported at the annual meeting of the Hongkong Football Association, held at the Sports Club last evening, but it was stated that this deficit was due to unusual expenses incurred during the season and could be regarded with equanimity.

Sir Thomas Southern, President, occupied the chair, and was supported by Mr. C. M. Hanners, Chairman, and other members of the Council.

Addressing those present, the Chairman said: "Before proceeding with the business on the Agenda, I should like to refer to the recent death of our old friend, Mr. Lo Cheung-shui. Mr. Lo occupied an honoured position in the public life of the Colony and he was, to many of us, Europeans and Chinese alike, a personal friend. I know that you will wish to pass a vote of sympathy with our vice-President, Mr. M. K. Lo, whose absence from our meeting to-day we so greatly regret, in the irreparable loss which he has sustained in his father's death."

As a mark of respect the meeting stood in silence for a few seconds. After the minutes of the last annual general meeting and the Extraordinary general meeting were confirmed, the Chairman addressing the gathering, said:

"I make an earnest appeal to players and spectators alike, and in this I include all communities, for the fault by no means lies on one side alone, to play the game as it is meant to be played keenly but cleanly. So far as the Hongkong Football Association is concerned, it is determined to keep the game clean in Hongkong, and it will not hesitate to use all the powers it possesses to maintain the true spirit of the game in this Colony."

TRIBUTE TO OFFICIALS.
Before I close I should like to pay a tribute to the work of the Officers of the Association and to the members of the Council and particularly of the Emergency Committee. The Council met on sixteen occasions, but that only represents a fraction of the excellent work done by the Council and Committee. Major Mannering, who has occupied the very responsible position of Chairman of the Council, deserves our special thanks for his devotion to the interests of the Association. We greatly regret the retirement of the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall from the position of vice-President. Dr. Kotewall has done a very great deal for the Association in past years and his retirement is a real loss to us. It was fortunate for us that we were able to persuade Mr. M. K. Lo to take his place. That enthusiastic Footballer, Mr. J. Ralston, succeeded Mr. Hanneck's place as a vice-President. We thank him for his great assistance during the year and particularly for his work in connection with the revision of the Rules of the Association.

We now have our own office in this Club, a much more satisfactory arrangement than any we have had before.

The Council will in future be able to meet in more congenial surroundings and we hope the new arrangement will lighten the work of our Hon. Secretary, who bears so much of the burden of running the Association. I am sure you will join with me in expressing the Association's high appreciation of Mr. C. T. May's services. His Assistant, Mr. Logan, resigned early in the year. We thank Mr. Goldenberg for his very material assistance he has rendered during the year and his resignation, and particularly for going to Shanghai on our behalf as Manager of the Interport Team.

Lastly, Gentlemen, we wish to express our thanks to the Committee of the Sports Club for allowing us the use of this room and for many kindnesses during the past year. They have kindly allowed us to establish our Headquarters in premises belonging to the Club, and this propinquity will help to cement the cordial relationship already existing between the Club and the Association.

"I have much pleasure in proposing the adoption of the report and statement of accounts."

Capt. C. E. Elliot-Heywood seconded and the motion was unanimously carried.

OFFICERS ELECTED.
The following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year—President, Sir Thomas Southern; Vice-Presidents, Mr. R. Hall (representing non-Chinese Civilian), Mr. M. K. Lo (representing Chinese) and Capt. C. E. Elliot-Heywood (nominated by Combined Services); Chairman, Major G. M. Mannering; Council, Mr. F. H. Barnes (Club de Recreio), Capt. G. F. Fleetwood (Royal Artillery), Mr. T. A. Mitchell (Kowloon Football Club), Capt. F. R. Williams (Lincolnshire Regiment), Lieut. Chapman (East Lancashire Regiment), Mr. Wong Ka-tsun (South China A.A.), Mr. A. C. Goldenberg (St. Joseph's), Mr. W. Ryde (Hongkong Football Club), Mr. C. Gilmigan (Civilian Second Division), and Mr. A. R. Hughes (Navy). The Police and Chinese Athletic have not yet sent in their nominations.

There being no further business, Mr. J. Ralston proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the Chairman.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO CHARITY.
Although receipts from the League Matches were less than we anticipated, quite generally throughout the season were quite satisfactory, and show that local interest in the Sport we are specially concerned to foster, has in no way diminished. It may be of interest to supporters of Football in Hongkong to know that, in spite of our unusually heavy expenditure, we have been able during the year to contribute no less than $6,721.80 to various Charities, and have in addition, assisted in the organisation of various Charity Matches, to the very material benefit of certain special funds.

The results of the various competitions are given in the Report, and I think you will all agree that we have had a very successful season. It has been a South Wales Borderers year for the Regiment and the Senior Challenge Shield and the First Division of the League, and, playing as the Welsh Team, carried off the Sunday Herald International Cup. We offer them our heartiest congratulations and hope they will carry away happy memories of their last season's football in Hongkong.

TRIANGULAR INTERPORT.
We were unfortunate in our Interport matches in Shanghai, but we look forward to the Interport matches here as the outstanding captains and given their colours.

One of the best bowling achievements in schools cricket was performed by R. Darowski, the Halleybury captain, who against the strong Uppingham eleven bowled forty-six overs and had only seventy-six runs from his deliveries. Darowski, a left-hand medium pace bowler, who maintains a good length is to be carefully watched by officials of the M.C.C. when he leads the Halleybury team against Cheltenham at Lords on August 3. In this game, Darowski will be supported by two first class players in A. M. Hayfield, a stylish batsman, and P. W. Gale, a fine bowler.

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"Fugitive Lovers" the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer melodrama showing from Sunday at the Queen's Theatre, brings a new and exciting form of entertainment to the screen. At Richard Boleslavsky's brilliant direction, the story of romance and adventure aboard a great Greyhound bus bound west from New York City is thrilling from the first "shot" to the last smashing sequence. Madge Evans is a chorus girl, Letty, who boards the bus in New York to escape the advances of her show's backer, one "Legs" Caffee, played by Nat Pendleton, gangster and braggart. As the bus passes a penitentiary on its first night out of New York an unjustly convicted prisoner, Porter, played by Robert Montgomery, leads a jail break and manages to hide under the canvas luggage-tarpaulin. Having access to an unlocked bag he changes into civilian clothing and later enters the bus as a passenger. While the spectator is on the edge of the seat, pausing with the excitement of the realistic prison break, the story sweeps on with even greater intensity. Withington, a jovial salesman-passenger, marvels at the likeness of Porter's suit to one of his own, while "Legs" plots revenge against the escapee. "Legs" discovers the identity of the young man who has gained the affection of Letty, "Legs" discovers the plan that Letty, played by C. Henry Gordon, prison official, is pursuing. It is at hand. The tender love story, in juxtaposition with the excitement of the manhunt, is guaranteed to make even the most phlegmatic audience rise in their chairs and cheer. Robert Montgomery has never given a truer performance than he does as the escaped convict. Madge Evans, growing more beautiful with each picture, again proves herself an exceptionally fine actress. The rest of the brilliant cast deserve equal praise.

"Long Lost Father"

The attempts of a father to gain after he deserted her as an infant meet baffling obstacles, which are depicted in amusing and serious style in John Barrymore's newest starring picture, "Long Lost Father", with Helen Chandler and Donald Cook, at the King's Theatre to-day. Barrymore is in the title role of this RKO Radio Picture, which was directed by Ernest B. Schoedsack. As Carl Bellairs, night club manager, he meets his daughter, Lindsay Lane, when she is hired to dance and entertain in his cabaret. He is displeased, but his dismayed by his daughter's bitter hatred for him, which she harbored since the day he neglected her and her mother. Carl's attempts to resume a fatherly role to her meet strenuous rebuffs. Soon, she forsakes her fiancé, Bill Strong, to take up with Lord Vivaldi, a playboy. When she finds herself accused of theft by Vivian's coterie, she obtains aid from her father, although, to insure her safety, Carl knows, is to lose her for ever. Alan Mowbray, E. E. Olive, Reginald Sharland, Ferdinand Gottschalk and Nellie Morwood have prominent roles in "Long Lost Father". Dwight Taylor wrote the adaptation from G. B. Stern's novel.

"I Loved A Woman"

Alfred E. Green, while directing the First National picture, "I Loved A Woman", which is showing at the Alhambra Theatre, discovered it is almost as difficult for a trained singer with a delicate ear for music, to sing off key, as it is for an untrained one with no ear whatever, to keep a tune. The picture co-stars Edward G. Robinson, and Kay Francis, with Genevieve Tobin in the role of Robinson's wife and youthful sweetheart. During the courtship days, Miss Tobin is wont to sing to Robinson the popular ballads of the early nineties. The character has a poor ear for music and flirts badly, however. "Listen Miss Tobin," said Green, "If you can't make your voice do tricks you certainly can hit the wrong keys of the piano, can't you?" She tried it and could. And then Green got just the effect he wanted. For striking the wrong notes on the piano threw Miss Tobin's voice out, and she flitted badly. "I Loved A Woman" is a powerful and most unusual love drama centering around an opera star and a great ment pucker. The screen play by Charles Kenyon and Sidney Sutherland is based on the novel by David Karsner, author of "Silver Dollar".

"All Men Are Enemies"

The cast of "All Men Are Enemies", coming to the King's Theatre, on Saturday, could form an "England to Hollywood" club, with the assurance of a sizeable charter-member list. Besides Hugh Williams, brilliant young London screen and stage star, whose American talking picture career is launched with this film, Herbert Mundin, Halliwell Hobbes and Una O'Connor are all of England. While Mona Barrie, who played a leading role, names Australia as her birthplace, she maintains that the club boundaries should be elastic enough to include all of the British Empire. Only Helen Twelvetree, who will be seen opposite Williams, is of American birth. Complications arise in the case of Director George Fitzmaurice. Of Irish parentage, he was born in Paris, and lived there until 17 years of age, when he went to Calcutta, India. He remained there a few years before coming to the United States. Just to round out the international aspects, actor of "All Men Are Enemies", a picturization of Richard Aldington's best-selling novel of the same name, is laid in Capri in England and in Vienna in.

"Whistling in the Dark"

For laughter and thrills, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer comedy, "Whistling in the Dark", which is showing at the Queen's can be recommended without reservation. There is not a single dull spot, and with such comedy experts as Ernest Ruess, leading comedian of the New York and London Stage, and Una Merkel, who head the cast, the laughter crowds fast upon the dramatic action. The fun revolves around the attempt of Truax, as an author of murder mystery stories, and Miss Merkel, as his society girl fiancée, to plan a "perfect crime" for a band of crooks, who threaten them with death if they fail. Against the half-dozen desperate thugs who hold them captive in a deserted house, the diminutive Truax pits his nimble novelistic wit, and succeeds in turning the laugh on them. For eleven months Truax starred in the Broadway production of this play, and the skill of his droll performance on the screen gives evidence that a new star has been found in the Hollywood firmament. As in "Red Headed Woman", Una Merkel surpasses all expectations as a comedienne. Droll characterizations are given by such lesser members of the cast as Edward Arnold, Johnny Miljan, C. Henry Gordon, Johnny Hines, Joseph Cawthorne, Nat Pendleton, Tenen Holtz and Marcelle Corday. In the direction of Elliot Nugent is to be found due credit for the excellence of this screamingly funny film, which excites even while it amuses.

RURAL ECONOMY

CO-OPERATION SOCIETIES FOR CHINA

London, July 12. Mr. C. F. Strickland, formerly of the Indian Civil Service and a brother of the late Mr. W. R. Strickland of the Chinese Salt Gabelle, is leaving for Shanghai on July 27, under the auspices of the Universities' China Committee and the Nanking University, to initiate rural co-operation societies.

Interviewed by Reuter to-day, Mr. Strickland said he had been specially assigned to this kind of work for 12 years by the Indian Government and had also travelled in Europe studying agricultural societies. These are already a great success in India, and he imagined the Chinese farmers' conditions were similar to those encountered in India.

The primary aim would be to found credit societies to finance the farmer, he said, and emphasize the importance of getting the farmer to contribute, personally, small amounts. Already in India there was great rivalry between the peasants to subscribe freely.

The co-operation societies have proved most useful in India in educational and social matters, and in checking the Indian peasant's inordinate passion for litigation, he said.

Mr. Strickland is keen to start radio talks between the villages on agricultural questions. These were a marked success in India and Palestine.

Mr. Strickland will lecture at Nanking and other parts of the country; but, chiefly, he aims at practical work in the villages, and hopes that the Chinese Volunteers will assist, as they did in the famous Ting Hsien experiment. —Our Own Correspondent.

EUROPEAN COLLAPSES IN RESTAURANT

An elderly European, Mr. D. G. Prestage, believed to reside in Kowloon, dropped dead in Wellington Cafe, 113 Des Voeux Road Central late last night. He called in at the cafe about 9 p.m. and sat down to drink a cup of coffee. Suddenly he slumped forward.

The Chinese supervisor went to his assistance but Mr. Prestage was already beyond aid. The police were informed and the body was removed to the mortuary.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR SKIN FRESH AND CLEAR IN SUMMER.

Pimples and other facial blemishes are unsightly at the best of times, but especially so during the summer months when the gay, bright colours of your clothes attract the eye. The first essential in order to have a clear fresh skin is to avoid constipation, for it is the poisons escaping from a congested food tract into the blood stream which cause blemishes, pimples and other facial blemishes. Pinkettes, the tiny laxative pills will keep you regular, aid digestion, tone up the liver, banish biliousness and sick headaches, make the breath pure and sweet, prevent boils and pimples, and keep you hale and hearty. Non-habit-forming and non-gripping. Pinkettes are the ideal laxative. Obtainable at all chemists.

MONK ATTACKED BY FOOTPADS

INCIDENT AT CASTLE PEAK

On his return home to the Sul Chak Lam Monastery yesterday after a trip to Hongkong, Yul Sim underwent an experience which shook his monkish calm and brought his philosophic mind rudely to earth.

Two men approached him on an isolated hillside path at Castle Peak. He recognised them as being casual labourers whom he had previously employed, and readily answered them when they asked if he had other work for them. This turned out to be only a pose, for, without further preamble, the two set on him, one with a bamboo pole and the other with a wooden chopper. The one armed with the chopper made a sweeping swipe at his legs which the monk adroitly avoided. He had his purse containing $50 in notes wrenched from his girdle, and in his hurry to escape further attention, tumbled a distance of 30 feet down the hillside and badly injured his hand.

When the monk picked himself up the footpads had left the scene.
He reported the affair at the Castle Peak Police Station.

FARMER SUCCEUMS TO INJURIES

Oblivious to the near approach of the 8.16 express, a Chinese attempted to cross over the No. 45 Railway Bridge yesterday, and was knocked down, receiving injuries from which he died very shortly afterwards.

The victim, Wong Lee-choi, was a farmer of Kai Tim village in Chinese territory.

THE FATE OF SVEN HEDIN

CAPTURE DOUBTED BY SISTER

JUNE 18 LETTER

Stockholm, July 12.

The fact that the family of Sven
Hedin received a letter from him on July 9, dated Urumai, June 18, leads them to doubt the accuracy of the report that he has been captured by brigands.

They recall that he was captured by brigands in Chinese Turkistan some little time back and the famous explorer's sister expresses the opinion that the news of his previous adventure with brigands has only just filtered through to Peking overland and has, consequently, been regarded as a fresh capture.

Mr. Klerkegaard, a Danish employee of the Chinese Postal Service, stationed at Urumai, is now on holiday in Denmark and brought the letter from Sven
Hedin to his family.

He stated that Sven Hedin was,
when he left, staying at the Post-master's house in Urumai awaiting patrol supplies.—Reuter.

A HOPE DISAPPOINTED?

It is just possible that the circumstances are as suggested by the explorer's sister, but the brief details known do not support the view. The story of Hedin's capture some months ago was widely published in the Far East.
Furthermore, according to Reuter's Peking correspondent, the story did not reach Peking by an overland messenger, but was announced in a telegram received from Anshi and dated July 4.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, accompanied by Capt. R.
F. Walter, A.D.C., were guests of His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D.
A. MacGregor, and Mrs. MacGregor to dinner, last Tuesday.

THE STONE-YARD FRACAS

FALSE ALARM OF FRESH TROUBLE

A report that another battle was being staged between the Ningpo masons and Haklens employed at the stone-yard of Messrs. Logan & Amps at Tokwawan reached the police shortly after 5.30 yesterday afternoon.

It turned out, however, to be a false alarm, but signs were not lacking that the bad feeling engendered by the previous day's conflict had not been allayed.

Meanwhile depositions are being taken amongst the Chinese who are recovering from their injuries in hospital, with the view to bringing a number before the Magistrate on a charge of disorderly conduct.

LONDON NAVAL TALKS

PRIMARY CAUSE FINDING

AND SPARKS SET UP BY COLLAPSE

The conclusion that the primary cause of the explosion at the West Point works of the Hongkong and China Gas Company two months ago was the failure of the side-sheeting on the gasometer was the most important feature of the verdict rendered by the special jury at the formal conclusion of the inquiry at the Central Magistracy at 12.15 p.m. to-day.

The keen interest with which the inquiry, spread over seventeen hearings, has been followed in the Colony, was indicated by the crowded courtroom when the final proceedings opened.

Messrs. P. Tester (foreman), Mr. N. Drummond and Mr. L. Dunbar formed the jury, with Mr. E. W. Hamilton as Coroner.

Several recommendations were made regarding the inspection and sites of gasometers, and it was stated that the jury rejected the theory that a missile was thrown at the holder.

MISSILE THEORY DISCOUNTED

The jury's verdict, in full, was: "We are satisfied that the body was that of Chien Ram and that the cause of death was shock following severe and extensive burns. We return a verdict of Death from Misadventure."

"The original cause of the disaster was an escape of gas from the holder, due to the failure of the side sheeting."

"The side sheeting failed from wastage due to corrosion."

"We lean to the opinion that the original ignition was caused by sparks from the tearing of the plates as the gasometer fell. We are of opinion that there was a minor explosion in the watchman's hut and that gas did ignite No. 13, Chung Sing Street."

"We reject the theory that a missile was thrown at the gasometer and punctured it prior to the disaster."

GASOMETER PRACTICE.

"From the evidence placed before us we are satisfied that the gasometer was originally erected and subsequently maintained in accordance with the general practice of gas engineering. This practice, however, we are advised by expert witnesses, presages the life of a holder at 40 to 50 years without material examination. This may be satisfactory in temperate climates in cases where holders are reasonably isolated, permitting the safe dispersal of any leakage, and here the pressure—of a gas alone need be considered. We suggest that steps should be taken to set a higher internal maintenance, especially including periodical internal examination."

"We are pleased to record that after the disaster the steps taken by the Gas Company, Police, Fire Brigade, Ambulance and voluntary workers were commendably satisfactory and prompt."

G. C. H. COMMENDED.

"We are especially impressed by the manner in which the resources of the Government Civil Hospital were speedily mobilised to meet the rush of casualties and by the action of the Medical Officer in stationing someone at the entrance to the Hospital to administer opiates as patients arrived."

"We desire to express our deep sympathy with the relatives of the forty-two who are known to have lost their lives and with the forty-six who are known to have suffered injury in this disaster."

JURY THANKED.

The Coroner: I think that concludes the case. It remains for me to thank you gentlemen, very heartily for the care and attention you have devoted to this case and also for the extremely perfect way in which you have collaborated with me. I have the pleasure to inform you that, on my application, His Honour the Chief Justice is pleased to exempt you from jury service for a period of three years. The inquiry is closed.

Rothermere Gift To London

PARK IN MEMORY OF MOTHER

London, July 12. Lord Snell, Chairman of the London County Council, to-day formally opened the Geraldine Mary Harmsworth Park at Southwark, a new open space which is Lord Rothermere's gift to London as a memorial to his mother.

Lord Rothermere, in a speech, commented on the alertness displayed by the London authorities in acquiring, wherever possible, new open spaces in London's vast stretch of masonry.

He mentioned their recent acquisition of Booter's Hill and the successful efforts by the authorities and the public to assure as a permanent boon to London's children, the immensely valuable Foundling Hospital site in Bloomsbury.—British Wireless.

Detective Sergeant Pitches made an application before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for the confiscation of 112,500 heroin pills which were found on the third floor of No. 74 Thompson Road, Wanchai, on July 11. The application was granted.

Princess Shizuko Teru, eldest daughter of the Emperor and Empress of Japan, has been sent to school as an ordinary pupil. The Princess is shown in white during a hike with classmates.

PAMELA WINS THIS TIME

GREAT GOLF WIN AT LE TOUQUET

17-YEAR-OLD GIRL'S ACHIEVEMENT

(Special to "Telegraph")

London, July 12. Seventeen-year-old Miss Pamela Barton, of the Mid-Surrey Club, who made history in the British Women's Open Golf Championship, by qualifying for the final in her first major tournament, went one better in France to-day.

In the British final she was defeated by Mrs. Holm (Troon) after a great fight.

To-day, Pamela simply overwhelmed her opponent in the final of the French Women's Open Championship, played over the Le Touquet course.

There was never a moment's doubt about the result, and Pamela won finally by the wide margin of eleven and nine!

It was her second attempt in a big tournament. She left school only at the end of last term.

Nevertheless, Pam is a finished golfer. She has been coached for the last six months by Archie Compston and she now hits with tremendous power. To-day one of her tee shots carried the ball two hundred and thirty yards against the wind!

Mastery of the chip shot is, however, her strongest card and it was superiority in these shots, and on the green, that gave her such an outstanding success at Le Touquet.—Reuter Special.

SUN FO ARRIVES IN HAWAII

HOPES FOR TALK WITH ROOSEVELT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Honolulu, July 12.

Mr. Sun Fo, President of the Legislative Yuan of the Chinese Government, has arrived here.

He declared that he had arrived purely for the purpose of taking a vacation, although he would be glad to see President Roosevelt if an opportunity offered.

He told the United Press correspondent that China had been encouraged by the apparent conservatism of the Okada Cabinet. He is planning to stay in the Hawaiian Islands for a month.—United Press.

TYPHOON DANGER PASSES

Recurves Up Formosa Channel

The typhoon of which warning was issued yesterday has, according to the Royal Observatory, recurved in a more northerly direction and is moving up the Formosa Channel. It was situated this morning close to the Pescadorees.

The disturbance, which is of small dimensions, will not now affect the Colony. The No. 1 warning signal was lowered shortly after six o'clock this morning.

TRIAL OF KAYE DON

(Special to "Telegraph")

London July 12.

Kaye Don, the world-famous racing driver, appeared before the Court at Douglas, Isle of Man, to-day, to answer a charge of manslaughter arising from the death of his mechanic in an accident.

Quaint ceremonies marked the opening of the trial, which was started before Deemster Tarrant and a jury.

The juryman was chosen by lot from the names of seventy male residents of Douglas.

The Deemster subscribed to a curious oath in which they swore "to execute the laws of the island justly and as indifferently as a herring bone doth lie 'midst fish."

$500 NOTE FORGERIES

BANK OFFERING BIG REWARDS

As a sequel to the forgery of Hongkong and Shanghai Bank notes of the $500 denomination, it is understood that the Bank is offering substantial rewards for the tracking down of the counterfeiters.

A reward of $3,000 is being offered for the arrest and conviction of the engraver of $500 notes or notes of any other denomination, as well as a reward of $10,000 for the arrest and conviction of the engraver and the discovery of the counterfeiting plant.

The rewards are to be valid for one year.

HITLER'S WILL THE SAME THING

BEYOND ALL CRITICISM

Berlin, July 13.

"Justice and the Leader's will are one and the same thing."

This was the somewhat startling doctrine preached by General Goering, Hitler's right-hand strong man, to-night.

A demand for unconditional support for Herr Hitler and a warning against legal criticism of the Government's recent actions were made by General Goering, in the course of a speech to a special gathering of Public Prosecutors and State Attorneys.

He emphasised that Herr Hitler was determined to create Absolute Order in a Nazi State.

It was the task of his (Goering's) hearers to defend the State in every way against all attacks, he declared, adding "Justice and the Leader's Will are one and the same thing."

"This is the justice you must defend," he proceeded.

DOING THEIR DUTY.

General Goering promised to back personally those officials who did their duty—and to deal ruthlessly with those who did not.

The action of the State's leaders on June 30 was "the highest realisation of the best feeling of justice," and had now been legalised, so that no quarter was entitled to subject it to a critical test.

NO RESPECT FOR PERSONS.

They must keep the clean atmosphere which the Leader's act had cleansed as they must as without respect for persons as the law provided and as the leaders of the State provided.—Reuter.

THREAT OF NAVAL ACTION

NORWAY'S PREMIER'S ASSURANCE

Oslo, July 12.

Alluding to the British representations following interference with British trawlers in the fishing grounds off the Norwegian coast, the Premier, Mr. Mowinkel, pointed out that Norway has always maintained territorial waters to the extent of four miles from the shore.

He stated that the Norwegian Government had now sent a reply to the British Note, in terms which he believes will facilitate a friendly settlement.

The British Government yesterday threatened to furnish naval protection to British trawlers if interference with them in international waters was not stopped.—Reuter.

Railway Washout Near Peking

FLOOD DISASTERS CONTINUE

Peking, July 13.

The embankment of the Peking-Suiyuan Railway has been washed out at several points by flood and traffic has been suspended until the damage is repaired.

At one point, scores of feet of rails were carried away by the floods, which were created by torrential rains.

The Hopei Provincial Government is organising flood prevention work on a large scale. The Yellow River and Luanho River continue to rise and threaten to create devastating floods.

The Hopei sector of the Yellow River has risen twenty inches since yesterday afternoon. Some dykes threaten to collapse.

In the Luanho River, thirteen junks are reported to be missing, while twenty-two persons are known to have been drowned in the past two days. The motor transport system in the Luanqing districts has been completely paralysed by the flood. Scores of houses have collapsed or have been damaged in the flooded area.—Central News.

BANDITS ATTACK EXPRESS

REPULSED IN AFFAIR IN SHANTUNG

Peking, July 13.

Chinese reports from Tsinan state that the through express from Peking to Shanghai had a narrow escape from an attack by bandits in the small hours of yesterday morning.

After the express had passed Yenchow, bandits emerged from the undergrowth and opened fire on the train, but fled after an exchange of shots with the local militia, who promptly arrived on the scene.

The foreign passengers on the train included the Countess de Martel, the wife of the French High Commissioner in Syria.—Reuter.

RAIN LATER

MACDONALD AND ROOSEVELT

NO ARRANGEMENT TO MEET YET

PREMIER SAILS

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic News Agency, 1934. Received July 13, 9.11 a.m.)

Belfast, July 12.

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald sailed for Canada to-day aboard the C. P. R. s.s. Duchess of Richmond, for a three months' holiday in accordance with doctor's orders.

It is understood that he hopes to meet President Roosevelt in the course of his visit, although no definite arrangements have been made.

The Roosevelt return itinerary which has just been made public makes no mention of a meeting with Mr. MacDonald, which will probably be allowed to wait until the President has once more settled down in Washington.

Mr. Roosevelt is only proposing to make one important address in the course of his travels. That will be at Green Bay, Wisconsin, which seems significant as it is probably due to the fact that Senator La Follette is facing a hard fight for re-election there.

ROOSEVELT ITINERARY.

The U. S. S. Houston is arriving at Portland, Oregon, from Hawaii on August 3. The President will disembark and proceed to Donnellville, then visiting Soap Lake, Washington, via Spokane, to inspect the Coulee Dam, afterwards going to Glacier Park, Peck Dam in Montana, Devils Lake in North Dakota, St. Paul, Rochester, Minnesota, where he will participate in the Legion celebration in tribute to the Mayo Brothers, afterwards proceeding to inspect the Upper Mississippi developments, before going to Green Bay.

Chicago will be his last halt before arriving at Washington on August 10.

The President is expected to speak briefly at Rochester and perhaps at Glacier Park.—United States.

WHY THE KING GAVE UP GOLF

Got So Damned Angry, Says Prince

London, July 13.

His Majesty the King gave up golf because, in his own words, he got so damned angry, said the Prince of Wales in a racy speech last night at the dinner of the Lucifer Golfing Society, of which he is Captain.

The Prince recalled the days, many years back, when he caddied for the King, who, he said, played quite a good game.—Reuter.

Fresh New Skin 3 Shades Whiter

In
Days

The difference between a coarse, rough skin and a fine, soft, smooth skin is due to the difference in the size of the pores. Thousands have enlarged pores and do not know it. Every enlarged pore is a source of irritation — hence blackheads and perhaps pimples. Any woman can now easily obtain a fine, soft, smooth skin simply by the daily use of Crème Tokaloo Skinfood (white color) (non-dairy cream and olive oil combined with white sugar, tocopherol, and other ingredients). It instantly penetrates, soothes, and tightens enlarged pores, dissolves blackheads so that they fall away, whitens and softens darkest roughest skin. Keeps the coarse skin fresh and delicately moist but not greasy. Equally adapted to oily skin. Crème Tokaloo Skinfood (white color) gives indescribable new skin beauty and freshness in 3 days — such as can be obtained in no other way. It should be used every evening. If your face is wrinkled and aged-looking, you should also use Crème Tokaloo Skinfood (rose color) at night. It smooths and re-juvenates your skin while you sleep. 691

YOUR CHILDREN Burdening A Child Beyond Capacity

By Olive Roberts Barton

Dr. Douglas A. Thom, director of the habit clinics of Boston and director also of Mental Hygiene in the Department of Mental Diseases of Massachusetts, in his new book, "Guiding the Adolescent," refers among other things to "educational pitfalls."

The words caught my eye at once. "Educational Pitfalls."

Contrary to what I had expected, Dr. Thom explains that these are the various kinds of failure in the older child to cope with the high order of study expected of him.

I had in mind the conflicts arising from trying to fit the newer and broader vision in education to-day to narrower home tradition. Newer ideas of religion, of government and so on, which I do think cause much perplexity—learning one way of looking at things at home, and another at school. Who is right, the child wants to know.

But Dr. Thom bears harder on the other trouble, the fact that many children who do well in lower grade work and themselves up against a real impasse in high school, while parents attribute this failure to laziness or indifference.

Reasons for Failure

To go over some of the pertinent points, he explains the various reasons of failure.

First, some children are physically incapable of applying themselves to school work more than five or six hours a day, while others can concentrate on lessons for ten or even twelve hours a day without fatigue. I am not quoting directly, but paraphrasing his ideas.

Second, very many children find themselves pushed along, and when they enter high school have no real preparation for meeting their tasks. I think this is very important. Not only is there too little foundation for the sudden jump into scholastic work, but the habit of concentration has never been acquired.

The third point I have left until last because I believe it to be the most important—mental immaturity. Dr. Thom stresses the point.

Authorities on mental calibre agree that comparatively few adults have really adult minds, meaning that perfect development up to the chosen unit of standard is not always reached. It would take a long list of tables to explain this, but suffice it to say that each one of us has our "mental age."

Some even go beyond accepted standard, but many stay below. This does not mean that these latter are morons or odd or abnormal in any way. Often the reverse. Intelligence is a matter of width rather than height and the genius in one line may be stupid in another.

Show Mental Growth

Some children, too, delay mental completion until they are older. This is, why I like the idea of a year or two of work before

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

Get in Shape for the Beach Via Diet, Exercise and Massage

By Alicia Hart

Reports about the popularity of the Mae West type of figure notwithstanding, bathing suits—particularly the 1934 varieties that are briefly personified—aren't flattering to girls who are overweight. The beach is one place where a woman should weigh neither too much nor too little. So, with these ideas in mind prospective bathers should check up on their weight before they start out to buy a new swim suit.

Underweight girls have less of a problem on their hands than those who are overweight. Let us, to-day, then, concentrate on ways and means to lose these few excess pounds.

Remember, first of all, that reducing the amount of food you eat each day is a fine way to begin. As a matter of fact, many women lose weight without eliminating a single item from their daily menus. They simply eat a little less of everything. However, if you want to speed up the procedure, cut down on sweet and starchy foods and do daily exercises.

If exercises bore you or if you find that you haven't time for them, there are new reducing gadgets with which you can massage away fat on arms, legs, thighs and other parts of the body that are overweight. Easy to use at home and on yourself—they are very helpful to the woman who wishes to reduce in spots or to one who wants to keep her muscles and skin firm while she is losing weight.

COOL DECORATIVE IDEA

Huge pictures with pretentious-looking frames have no place on walls in the summer time. If you feel that walls without any decoration are much too bare, hang up small prints. Inexpensive floral prints and small etchings in rather frail, dainty frames are suggested. But use them sparingly. Five or six should be enough in a living room while dining and bedrooms can do with even less. Heavy tapestries and wall hangings must come down too. With the windows open so much of the time, they'll collect too much dust and, in addition, they make a room seem overcrowded and too warm for comfort.

The tone quality of the modern Portable Gramophone has been improved to such an extent, that, in the higher priced models it is in every respect equal to the tone quality of expensive cabinet machines.

CHAPTER I (Continued).

"It's so dull in this town," Jane complained, "the same old people year after year and everybody knowing everything about everybody else." She thought of Ann Veronica. "I wish I lived in London. I'd work at something or invent something—"

They had reached the courts. "You might invent a way to teach me your underhand serve," said Amy. She dropped her racket, tightened the net, got the balls out of the bag while Jane looked on. That was Jane's way. When everything was ready she took the shady side of the court and the game began.

Jane was by far the better player, but if she missed a stroke it fussed her and made her miss the next. Amy played steadily, evenly, and as if she enjoyed it. As soon as the score mounted against Jane she was frantic, smashed her serves, tried to kill every return, declared balls out that were in and turned the game into a fight. Her voice went high and her cheeks scarlet. It made Amy ashamed for her. "It's always like this," thought Amy, distressfully. "I'll have to let her win to calm her down."

So she began to slam her own serves into the net, to miss the easiest returns. After two love games Jane's mood was normal, even superior. "You must be getting tired," she said amiably.

"Oh, no. Just a streak of bad luck. I might get you yet," said Amy. "Jane's so silly," she thought. "She never will play for the fun of playing. It spoils things so to get mad if you lose." That was why she had wanted to go for a walk instead of playing tennis. It was easier to be with Jane when they were not doing anything competitive. For her secret satisfaction she allowed herself one good rally, but this time Jane became so hostile that Amy was sorry she'd done it. Again she let her game go down and Jane beamed with triumph. When they had played three sets it was she who suggested that they stop.

"Let's sit down and cool off," she said. "I want to fix my hair, too." "I'll tell you what's the matter with your game, Amy," began Jane, readjusting hairpins. "You don't study the placing of the ball. You just try to get it over the net any old way."

This was too much for Amy. She flung back her head and began to laugh. She simply couldn't help it. Jane stared at her. "What's the matter? I didn't say anything funny."

"No, I just happened to think of something." She must divert Jane quickly. "I wonder who that man is coming out of the Museum."

Look—in the brown suit. They both looked. The man was young, tall, square-shouldered. Even from a distance he suggested good tailoring and competent personality.

"Somebody to see the eminent Eliert's gold bricks, I suppose," said Jane. She watched the young man as he walked slowly down the street, looking about him as if to locate himself. There was something familiar about him. She felt she must know him, at least have seen him before. Then she remembered Ann Veronica and her lover. Why, this man was like Capes, the tall, blond, ruddy Capes. "He's awfully good-looking," she said.

"He is rather nice," agreed Amy. "Now there it is," grumbled Jane. "If an interesting man does come to town he calls on old Eliert and goes through the Museum and then he leaps right off again. Nobody meets him."

"The next time we have Professor Eliert to dinner I might tell him not to be so stingy with his visitors, but to remember that this town is full of beautiful, bored young women thirsting for new experiences. I wonder what he'd say?"

"He'd go pop-eyed. And your father would call you down." She was still watching the young man who stood hesitating at the corner of Jane's street. Amy followed her glance. "Let's go along and take a look at the handsome stranger," she said. "Maybe he's pug-nosed and cross-eyed close to, and that'll resign us to not meeting him." As she spoke she knew that she was voicing the wish in Jane's mind.

"Very well, if you want to," said Jane, assuming indifference but rising instantly.

They were equally tall, slender and straight but Amy, though a year younger, had the more mature, more quiet bearing. Jane was restless, self-conscious, always adjusting her belt, her hair, holding her hands and elbows stiff, watching to see if she was observed. Amy was thinking of Jane's manner as they walked along, wishing that she wouldn't take games so hard and be so tense and so unhappy and yet, with it all, so superior. She knew that it was these traits that made Jane unpopular with their own crowd and she had a shrewd notion that if Jane were more popular she would be much happier. None of the other girls would bother with Henry Berwyn and, though Jane might say it was because he supplied her with cigarettes, Amy felt that it was more probably an effort on Jane's part to have as much attention as anyone else.

"And yet she's so beautiful," thought Amy. "When she's having a good time she's so beautiful she puts out the rest of us. And she dances well, and she's clever. But I'm the only one who really is fond of her. I suppose it all comes down to her being an orphan."

She thought of her own easy, close-bound family with a warm tingle of appreciation. Yet honesty reminded her that it was most unlikely, even if Jane had a mother and father, that she'd be much more attached to them than she was to Miss Rosa.

"Where'd he go?" Amy asked aloud. She had been thinking so hard that she had forgotten to watch the stranger. "Why, he vanished away like a boojum. Isn't that queer?"

"He must have gone down Audubon street. That would be toward the hotel if he's staying at the Reeder," said Jane in an odd, stifled way.

"He might have called in somewhere. Let's see. The Dowlings, the Gates, the Purdys, the Morelands—well, there's no sign of him and we can't very well do a house-to-house search. He is lost and gone forever. Clementine, Jane, do you think Miss Rosa would let me have her 'Songs of Three Centuries'? There's a poem in it about dancing a saraband and I'd like to compare the meter with an old dance I dug out from Mother's music. It would be fun. If the poem and the dance were the same rhythm—"

"I'll ask her when she comes home," said Jane, hurrying on. "Maybe she's home now. I'll just stop and see."

"She couldn't be home yet. She was going calling after the tea. I'll call you up this evening or I'll bring the book over."

It was a dismissal. For some reason Amy could not fathom Jane was trying to get rid of her. Amy was used to Jane's odd ways but this was too much. "I'll call up this evening and ask Miss 'Rosa' myself," she said. "And the next time you don't want me to come in with you just say so, and don't make excuses that a child could see through. I'd much rather you'd be rude than tricky."

Jane was just starting to dash into the house but she stopped, startled by Amy's sharpness. Then she flung her arms around her friend and gave her a hard, excited hug. "Don't be cross," she said breathlessly. "I'll call you up this evening. I must find out—it's so queer—" and she ran up the steps before Amy could answer.

Amy went on, swinging her racket and smiling in spite of her feelings. No use being offended with Jane's childish mysteries and changeableness and jumping about. Besides, if she hurried she would be able to practice a little while before dinner. She turned her racket and strummed it like a banjo, humming under her breath. Presently some one came running after her and she glanced around to see Edgar Moreland.

"What's the rush? Who've you been tennis-ing with?"

"Jan."

Edgar shrugged. "I was just going to say that I'd like to have

"You mean, it was the last time?" she mocked him.

"Don't be picky." Though she was tall, Edgar was tall enough to grin down at her. "Lord, but you look lovely to-day. There's something about you, woman, that's unique and priceless. And yet behind that peerless countenance there lurks no modicum of common sense. Otherwise you wouldn't be so thick with Jane Terry. And, speaking of Jane, who's the new young man who's calling on her?"

"I don't know. Calling on her when?"

"Right now. I came home just when he went up the steps and it wasn't five minutes later when I saw you going down the street and I galloped out after you."

"What did he look like?"

"He was tall and fair and very handsome. Not so handsome as I am, of course—"

"Did he have on a brown suit?"

"He did. And a straw hat. I can offer you no data on his shirt, socks, or tie, as I was not close enough to get the details."

It all clicked together, the man, the time, the place.

"I don't know who he is," said Amy. "I saw him coming out of the Museum and walking toward the Terrys'. It must be the same man. So that's where he went."

Jane, of course, had seen him enter. "That was why she hurried so and wouldn't let me come in," thought Amy. It was typically Janeish.

"That's where he went, and little do I think of his taste. But maybe he was calling on Miss Rosa and, if so, okay," said Edgar. "Listen, am I coming to see you to-night or is Vanny or Bill Hobart or who?"

"I'll think it over and send out a bulletin," said Amy and went on into her own home. That silly Jane! The man was probably a book agent.

Modelled after Professor Piccard's famous stratosphere balloon, this great sphere is going down, not up. More than 30 feet in diameter, the big ball, shown above, was constructed by M. Georges Claude, the French scientist, to plumb the ocean depths. It is expected it will descend to a depth of more than 2,000 feet.

Rumbling in perfect formation through Moscow's great Red Square, this was the impressive sight witnessed by hundreds of thousands as a squadron of amphibian tanks passed the reviewing stand in a recent Russia's display of military might.

Signor Mussolini may have said that the place for Italian women is in the home, but that doesn't prevent the fair sex of his realm from keeping in step with Fascism. Smartly clad in their black and white uniforms, the well-drilled women's section of the Balilla here is shown marching proudly down a Roman thoroughfare during a recent celebration.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, "home of the Zeppelin," where there is now building a new super-Zeppelin that will not only fly passengers across the Atlantic, but transport automobiles as well! The big ship—"LZ-129"—pictured as it nears completion, will be about twice as large as the largest airship now in service.

Alfred E. Green, while directing the first National picture, "I Loved A Woman," which is showing at the Alhambra Theatre, discovered it is almost as difficult for trained singers with a delicate ear for music, to sing off key, as it is for an untrained one with no ear whatever, to keep a tune.

The picture co-stars Edward G. Robinson and Kay Francis, with Genevieve Tobin in the role of Robinson's wife and youthful sweetheart. During the courtship days, Miss Tobin is wont to sing to Robinson the popular ballads of the early nineties. The character has a poor ear for music and she badly misinterprets Miss Tobin's voice and she flatters badly. "I Loved A Woman" is a powerful and most unusual love drama centering around an opera star and a great meat packer. The screen play by Charles Kenyon and Sidney Sutherland is based on the novel by David Karsner, author of "Silver Dollar."

"All Men Are Enemies"
The cast of "All Men Are Enemies," coming to the King's Theatre on Saturday, could form an "England to Hollywood" club, with the assurance of a sizzling charter-member list. Besides Hugh Williams, brilliant young London screen and stage star, whose American talking picture career is launched with this film, Herbert Mundin, Halliwell Hobbes and Una O'Connor are all of England. While Mona Barrie, who played a leading role, names Australia as her birthplace, she maintains that the club boundaries should be elastic enough to include all of the British Empire. Only Helen Twelvetrees, who will be seen opposite Williams, is of American birth. Complications arise in the case of Director George Fitzmaurice. Of Irish parentage, he was born in Paris, and lived there until 17 years of age when he went to Calcutta, India. He remained there a few years before coming to the United States. Just to round out the international aspects, actor of "All Men Are Enemies," actor of "The Queen's Guard," and the best-selling novel of the same name is laid in Copri in England and in Vienna, etc.

"Whistling in the Dark"
For laughter and thrills, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer mystery comedy, "Whistling in the Dark," which is showing at the Queen's, can be recommended without reservation. There is not a single dull spot and with such comedy experts as Ernest

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

"Fugitive Lovers" the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer melodrama showing from Sunday at the Queen's Theatre, brings a new and exciting form of entertainment to the screen. At Richard Boleslavsky's brilliant direction, the story of romance and adventure aboard a tramp Greyhound bus bound west from New York City is thrilling from the first "shot" to the last amazing sequence. Madge Evans in a chorus girl, Letty, who boards the bus in New York to escape the advances of her show's backer, one "Lugs" Coffee, played by Nat Pendleton, gangster and braggart. As the bus passes a penitentiary on its first night out of New York an unjustly convicted prisoner, Porter, played by Robert Montgomery, lends a jail break and manages to hide under the canvas luggage-tarpaulin. Having access to an unlocked baggage compartment, Porter escapes and enters the bus as a passenger. While the spectator is on the edge of his seat, palpating with the excitement of the realistic prison break, the story sweeps on with even greater intensity. Withington, a jovial salesman-passenger, marvels at the likeness of Porter's suit to one of his own, while "Lugs" plots revenge against the roving man who has gained the affection of Letty. "Lugs" discovers the escaped convict's identity about the time that Daly, played by C. Henry Gordon, prison official sleuth in pursuit, is at hand. The tender love story, in juxtaposition with the excitement of the manhunt, is guaranteed to make even the most phlegmatic audience rise in their chairs and cheer. Robert Montgomery has never given a truer performance than he does as the escaped convict. Madge Evans, growing more beautiful with each picture, again proves herself an exceptionally fine actress. The rest of the brilliant cast deserve equal praise.

"Long Lost Father"
The attempts of a father to gain the love of a daughter twenty years after he deserted her as an infant meet baffling obstacles, which are depicted in amusing and serious style in John Barrymore's newest starring picture, "Long Lost Father," with Helen Chandler and Donald Cook, at the King's Theatre to-day. Barrymore is the title role of this RKO-Radio picture, which was directed by Ernest B. Schoedsack. As Carl Bellairs, night club manager, he meets his daughter, Lindsey Lane, when she is hired to dance and entertain in his cabaret. He is displaced, but not dismayed by his daughter's bitter hatred for him, who she harboured since the day he neglected her and her mother. Carl's attempts to resume a fatherly role to her meet strenuous rebuffs. Soon, she forsakes her fiancé, Bill Strong, to take up with Lord Vivian's first crowd. When she finds herself accused of theft by Vivian's estate, she obtains aid from her father, although, to insure her safety, Carl knows, is to lose her forever. Alan Mowbray, E. M. Ciolek, Reginald Sharland, Ferdinand Gottschalk and Natalie Moorhead have prominent roles in "Long Lost Father." Dwight Taylor wrote the adaptation from G. B. Stern's novel.

While Mona Barrie, who played a leading role, names Australia as her birthplace, she maintains that the club boundaries should be elastic enough to include all of the British Empire. Only Helen Twelvetrees, who will be seen opposite Williams, is of American birth. Complications arise in the case of Director George Fitzmaurice. Of Irish parentage, he was born in Paris, and lived there until 17 years of age when he went to Calcutta, India. He remained there a few years before coming to the United States. Just to round out the international aspects, actor of "All Men Are Enemies," actor of "The Queen's Guard," and the best-selling novel of the same name is laid in Copri in England and in Vienna, etc.

"Whistling in the Dark"
For laughter and thrills, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer mystery comedy, "Whistling in the Dark," which is showing at the Queen's, can be recommended without reservation. There is not a single dull spot and with such comedy experts as Ernest

TRAFFIC SIGNS TO BE REVISEDTO MAKE THEM MORE
PROMINENTCHATHAM ROAD INCIDENT

A complaint against the inconspicuousness of traffic signs in Kowloon was made by N. Stockton, of the S. C. M. Post, when summoned before Mr. Wynne-Jones, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, for failing to drive with due care and caution in Chatham Road on June 24.

Traffic Inspector Saunders said defendant was driving his car along Chatham Road behind a cyclist with a girl on the pillion. The cyclist turned into Cameron Road, and defendant, he alleged, was driving at such a speed that he could not pull up in time. In order to avoid an accident, he also swerved into Cameron Road. The car skidded, went into a side channel, came out and skidded again.

Defendant: I could not avoid turning into Cameron Road because the cyclist did not give me sufficient notice. I was following him, and he turned as soon as he had stretched out his hand.

His Worship: Did you know that that was a controlled area? You were exceeding the speed limit.

Defendant: No, I didn't know it was a controlled area. Very few motorists know where these areas are.

His Worship: There are signs put up, you know.

Defendant: I have never seen them in Chatham Road, your Worship.

His Worship (to Inspector Saunders): It is peculiar that all motorists complain of not being able to see the signs.

Inspector Saunders: Yes, your Worship. They always complain of not being able to see them, except the one in Nathan Road.

His Worship: In addition to putting up signs, it seems to me that we have to install loudspeakers too!

Inspector Saunders mentioned that the signs were being revised with a view to giving them more prominence.

A fine of $10 was imposed.

THE STONE-YARD
FRACASFALSE ALARM OF FRESH TROUBLE

A report that another battle was being staged between the Ningpo masons and Hakka employed at the stone-yard of Messrs. Logan & Amps at Tokwawan reached the police shortly after 5.30 yesterday afternoon.

It turned out, however, to be a false alarm, but signs were not lacking that the bad feeling engendered by the previous day's conflict had not been allayed.

Meanwhile depositions are being taken amongst the Chinese who are recuperating from their injuries in hospital, with the view to bringing a number before the Magistrate on a charge of disorderly conduct.

ANTUNG GALLANTRY
REWARDEDStanhope Gold Medal For
Mr. H. E. B. Jones

London, July 12. The gallantry displayed by Mr. H. E. B. Jones, in helping to save the passengers of the C.N.C. steamer Antung, wrecked off Hainan Island on March 6, 1933, was rewarded by the Prince of Wales, as President, who presented him with the Stanhope Gold Medal of the Royal Humane Society at York House, along with an illuminated testimonial on vellum setting out the facts.

The Prince chatted with Mr. Jones for some time in regard to the incident and his experiences in China.

It will be recalled that Mr. Jones rescued the captain's wife and daughter who fell into the sea when a boat upset.—Reuter.

THE TO KWA WAN
FRACASEIGHT MEN APPEAR IN COURT

Seven shamo-faced Ningpo men, every one of them with injuries about the head, and a Hakka who was completely unscathed were charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones, at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, with disorderly conduct.

The case was a sequel to the fight in Tokwawan on Wednesday afternoon when an altercation between a Ningpo man and a Hakka resulted in free fight between the two factions.

Sergeant Whelan stated that altogether 22 men were injured in the fight. Fourteen were still in hospital. They would also be charged with disorderly conduct.

He asked his Worship to remand the case for a week in order to allow all defendants to appear in Court together.

It is understood that the private practitioners of the Colony have already been circularised to this effect.

CORRESPONDENCE

Cadeis and Consulates.

Hongkong Telegraph.
To the Editor,

Sir,—Under the heading "Consulate Shortage" in your esteemed paper of to-day's date, I find that Sir John Simon has been or is under some difficulty in finding suitable men to fill vacancies in no less than three independent British Consulates in China, owing to death, illness or resignation.

I am of opinion that Sir John should not have been in any difficulty whatsoever in filling these vacancies when they occurred.

In Hongkong, we have numerous Government Officials known as Cadeis who are well-known for their extraordinary intelligence and ability. From certain Government records, you will find that the majority of these cadeis are men who have taken some degree at Oxford, Cambridge or other well-known University and they are sent out to Hongkong after a very difficult examination before they are 24 years of age.

Within two years of their arrival in the Colony, you will find that in the majority of cases they pass what is known as their "final" examination in the Chinese language (a most difficult examination for foreigners) and within two years after this, and sometimes, before, they pass what is called in Government language, the "law" examination (what this examination is I do not know). As soon as they have passed the latter examination, according to Government rules, they are at once qualified to administer Justice in the various Police Courts in Hongkong and the liberty of the subject in all criminal matters is left in their complete power and control.

In my opinion, they are men of such exceptional intelligence that they are able, after only four years in the service, to take up any position as head or acting head of any department in the Government service, and, to my own knowledge, they have also been appointed to various positions in the service which require special technical knowledge although they hold no proper qualification for such position. As I understand certain Sanitary Inspectors must pass certain examinations in sanitary law and practice before they can be appointed to such a position, but the Head of the Sanitary Department must be a Cadet without any qualification in sanitary matters.

In view of the above, do you not think, Mr. Editor, that, instead of closing up to the three consulates in China as they appear to have done, no difficulty could have been experienced by Sir John Simon if he had only telegraphed to Sir William Peel asking him to transfer three of these valued cadet-officers to the diplomatic service without in any way having to close-up the Consulates in question?

My own opinion of these Cadets is that, according to the Government, they are able to take up any duties whatsoever which might be entrusted to them, although they may not have any technical or theoretical knowledge for any such posts.

Perhaps your readers will be good enough to let me know their views in connection with the above.

RESIDENT.
Hongkong, July 12th, 1934.

MORE TRAFFIC
OFFENCESTO-DAY'S BATCH OF CASES

E. H. H. Higham, of Messrs. Davies, Brooke and Gran, architects and civil engineers, and D. E. Hindmarsh were fined $10 each by Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, for having allowed an unlicensed driver to drive private car No. 2960, and the latter for having driven without a licence, at Mount Davis on July 3.

Yu Hon, driver of motor lorry No. 110, was fined $15 for having disobeyed a traffic signal at the junction of Stubbs Road and Queen's Road East.

Traffic Sergeant Clarke stated that defendant came down Stubbs Road and turned east, cutting in front of a car driven by Mr. Garneys, who had to brake to avoid a collision. Mr. Garneys was going up Stubbs Road from Queen's Road.

Li Yip-oi, driver of private car No. 1251, was cautioned on a summons of having driven the car when not in full control.

It was alleged by Inspector Nicol that defendant had a six-year-old child seated on his knee, when driving in Percival Street.

Defendant stated the child was only standing.

Lau Sing, driver of private car No. 1055, was fined $10 on a summons for having disobeyed a traffic signal at the Star Ferry.

Inspector Nicol stated that the defendant drove past the red light. There were quite a number of people coming off the wharf.

THE U.S. STOCK
MARKETOFFERINGS SOON ABSORBED

New York, July 12. Among the favourable factors prevailing before the opening of the market this morning were the strength in commodities and the sustained improvement in automobile sales, also the fact that offerings on the stock market seem to dry up on any recessions.

Unfavourable factors included the decline in June department store sales from 77% to 73% of the 1923-34 average.

Steel operations in the Youngstown area are holding at around 30%.

To-day's stock market opened steady, with prices in a narrow range. The market was quiet and speculative interest at present appears to be turning noticeably towards commodities.—Swan, Culbertson and Fritz.

STAMPING OUT
TERRORISMAUSTRIAN CABINET'S

Vienna, July 13. The new Cabinet has drawn up a measure providing for a sentence of death for bomb-throwing or for the illegal possession of explosives.

REV. HOWARD SMITH.

SAFE ARRIVAL AT HIS MISSION STATION

Hankow, July 12. General Klu Hsiang, telegraphing to Hankow to-day, reports the safe arrival of the Rev. Howard Smith, the American missionary, who was in the hands of Lu's Communist troops for some time, at Tangshui, his mission station.

Mr. Smith arrived at the mission on July 7, and is now busy packing up his belongings, and is coming to Hankow shortly.—Reuter.

SUDDEN DEATH

EUROPEAN COLLAPSES IN RESTAURANT

An elderly European, Mr. D. G. Prestage, believed to reside in Kowloon, dropped dead in Wellington Cafe, 113 Des Voeux Road Central late last night. He called in at the cafe about 9 p.m. and sat down to drink a cup of coffee. Suddenly he slumped forward.

The Chinese supervisor went to his assistance but Mr. Prestage was already beyond aid. The police were informed and the body was removed to the mortuary.

BOMBER CRASHES

LEADING ITALIAN PILOT
AMONG FOUR DEAD

Rome, July 12. Four members of the Italian Air Force were killed to-day when a bombing plane caught fire, and crashed on to the Monte Celfo aerodrome.

The dead include Domenico Arfini, one of the leading Italian pilots.

The only theory about the disaster so far advanced is spontaneous combustion.—Reuter.

In the number of risks, pursuance of the policy of the Police Department, was brought to the attention of the Committee. After discussion it was decided that the Association take action in the matter.

[Since the meeting of the K.R.A. Committee, it has come to the knowledge of the Association that provision is made on the floor of the maternity ward, the Kowloon Hospital where patients may have their own medical practitioners.]

Street Watering.

A communication was received from the Colonial Secretary under date of June 21, 1934, replying to the Association's request for a resumption of street watering in Kowloon, stating that Government does not feel justified, at present, owing to present financial stress, to incur the heavy expenditure which this service would involve.

The matter of a further reduction in the number of risks, pursuance of the policy of the Police Department, was brought to the attention of the Committee. After discussion it was decided that the Association take action in the matter.

PLAYGROUNDS FOR THE POOR

In opening the Wanchai children's playground, the Hon. Sir Thomas Southorn expressed the hope that the day would come when every child in the Colony would have a place in which to play, free from danger to himself and others. That day, we fear, is a long way off; it may never come. None the less, there has in recent years been a distinct quickening of public interest in the provision of open spaces for the masses, and the progress already made in this direction engenders even greater hopes for the future. Happily, in the Colonial Secretary we have a high Government official who is heart and soul in the movement and who has played no small part in the activities which have resulted in the laying down of six playgrounds during the past five years. Mr. J. L. MacPherson, also, has shown characteristic energy and enthusiasm in the project. But, gratifying as the progress has been, there are, as Sir Thomas Southorn has pointed out, thousands of children who remain unprovided for. The system at present in force is for the Government to provide the plots, leaving it to the Children's Playground Association to equip and maintain the centres. The burden is, however, a heavy one for the Association, which requires at least $450 per month to carry out its work effectively. This is on the basis of the existing six playgrounds; obviously, it will need even more money as and when fresh playing-fields are opened up. There is even now an urgent need for funds. Many of the sporting institutions of the Colony have helped by joining the Association, but the number of individual subscribers is lamentably small. When it is considered what a boon these playgrounds are for the poorer children of the Colony, for whose enjoyment so little is done, there should be no difficulty in maintaining a regular yearly income enabling the Association to function without the need of having to worry over finances. If there are residents who desire ocular proof of the need which these playgrounds serve, we commend a visit to the Wanchai centre, where during any evening hundreds of children can be seen making use of the facilities with unbounded enjoyment. But, as we say, only a beginning has so far been made; so much remains to be done. The great need at the moment is more money. We commend the movement to all who have at heart the welfare and happiness of the poor children of the Colony.

NOTES OF THE DAY

PEACE THROUGH FEAR?

Amidst wars and rumours of wars, many are striving to make real to the world the horrors of war by drawing pictures of gas attacks from the air that will smother our homes and our children, of paralyzation of supplies, of starvation, and of pestilence. The purpose of these pictures is to enlist fear to help the cause of peace. Mr. Nikola Tesla has now added his quota with the promise of a horrible death ray which he intends to place at the disposal of all governments. The idea is that it will be so deadly in effect that none dare risk its employment against them and their people. The world would do well to refuse fear as an ally. Fear's advice to him is negative, telling him to refrain from doing what inclination bids him do, whereas constructive thought and action are the need of the day. Examples of this obstructive quality of fear are seen in every field of material invention and in social history. Another characteristic of fear is its effect upon man's judgment. In every difficult situation, the first necessity is to be able to appreciate correctly what is the right course to pursue, but it is notorious that fear warps the judgment, giving a strong bias against the course which it elects to believe unsafe. For this reason, in any venture no one willingly would choose as leader a man known to be apprehensive of the outcome.

THE ETERNAL DELUSION

What has been said of the experience of individuals is equally true of international affairs. Fear operates to prevent confident and constructive acts and to lead judgment astray. To encourage fear is to forge a weapon that is likely to prove more enemy than friend to peace. There can be no doubt that the general sense of fear and disquiet played a very large part in precipitating the last European war. The best that can be said for fear is that men sometimes avoid crime from fear of the consequences, yet even in this case it is worth noting that fear has done the man himself no good, for he still suffers from the delusion that the crime would bring him advantage, and, if at any time circumstances make him believe he can evade the consequences, he will commit it. Fear can no more produce peace than darkness can create light. Real peace can come only to a people whose thoughts and aims are peaceful.

MEASURING "IT"

Nobody or nothing has ever adequately defined "it"—but a deadly instrument has just made its debut which may cause riots in the feminine world. The "pashometer" is a complicated affair of positive and negative bulb lights, an infra-red ray passing between two lenses and a magic aluminium circle wherein one's figure reflection is caught by a photo-electric cell which registers the degree of intensity on a dial. It purports to register personality or "it", and is being demonstrated at a radio exhibition. Miss Jocelyn Howarth, the star of the Australian film "The Squatter's Daughter", registered 98 per cent. "It" on the machine, but she was beaten by a young Melbourne suburban matron who registered one hundred per cent. The Lord Mayor of Melbourne registered only 30 per cent, while the lady Mayors, a daughter of Mr. Norman Brookes, the famous tennis star, showed, only 36 per cent.

THE JAPANESE TRUST

Lancashire cotton loom census reveals that while most other countries are reducing equipment, steady expansion is still proceeding in Japan and this process seems likely to continue. Japan's success in the World's trade in textiles may be summed up fundamentally in a word: organization. When Japan went in for industrialization, it already possessed this great advantage. For "the Hermit Kingdom" woke up in the 'sixties without sacrificing a feudal system. The State took the place of the lord in the allegiance of the Japanese—the State as personified in the Mikado. And it was the State that guided the country into industrialization. There was no stage of industrial laissez faire. Several great families, despised merchants in the era of feudalism, were the agents of industrialization. But, either through intermarriage with the old class or through the subsidy system, they gradually became indistinguishable from the State itself. Thus, before cartels were overheard of Japan had them. Before rationalization became a new word in the language, the lexicon of Japanese business had a place for it. Japan, in the words of Mr. Arno S. Pearse, head of the Lancashire Cotton Federation, has developed into one huge trust.

DO YOU KNOW WHEN YOU ARE REALLY HAPPY

By BERNARD FALK

I am persuaded that we do not know when we are happy. It is a view with which I have found most people whose opinion I have sought to agree with me. An old friend, on whose ripe wisdom I set much store, expressed himself in this fashion:

We can no more tell when we are happy than we can be sure when the top of a Stock Exchange boom is reached.

For most of us schooldays are probably the happiest period of our existence, when the simplest joys, such as an unexpected half-holiday, can put us on the best of terms with ourselves. Yet how few are the boys and girls who realize that with their innocent school-years are bound up innumerable golden hours which may never be recaptured!

Courtship, marriage, the birth of a first child, early successes in one's calling—each is a landmark in a typical career which it is usual to associate with happiness, but until these chapters are part of life in the round we cannot distinguish whether they are interludes of genuine or illusory contentment. Were the necessary gift of discernment ours to command we should not so often mistake purchased pleasure for that more profound serenity of mind and spirit in which real happiness functions, and has its being.

MATERIAL CONSIDERATIONS.

Presumably for our good, happiness, it would seem, is only to be detected in retrospect, when its comfortable spell has passed, and, in contrast with other periods of life, it is a shining memory over which, as we grow older, the mind has a fondness for lingering. If my experience has not been vastly different from the great majority, the occasions to ensure happiness are mostly governed, to the smallest extent only, by material considerations.

Take a typical instance, a weekend when I sit in the sunshine, perhaps in one of the public parks, to read for an hour or so an interesting book. Uncontrolled, my eye takes in the beauty of Nature's scenic effects—the green tracery of the trees, the floral riot of colour, the faint blue of the cloud-flecked sky. Follows a brisk walk that brings me with keen appetite to my meals. Perhaps I write some letters; do a number of odd jobs for myself; one way or another, at the end of the day, I am found deliciously tired in mind and limb, so that I fall off into a sound sleep, thereby rounding off a happy twenty-four hours.

I am conscious that a day has gone pleasantly by, but, however agreeable my feelings, I do not honour them with the title of happiness. That must be part of a later revelation. For a morning comes when I awake with a dull headache and everything to which I apply myself takes on a stale or lack-lustre aspect. My little universe is sadly out-of-order; I feel as old as the world itself. Then, regretfully, I think of the wonderful day I spent in the sunshine, among the flowers, and, for the first time, recognise how happy I was.

LEARNING BY CONTRAST.

We need, I am sure, the contrast between the bright and dull seasons of life to learn when true happiness was our portion. If existence ran on in one narrow channel, an uninterrupted flow of peaceful moods, we should never know happiness. How could we, deprived of the means of comparison?

Analysing my memories I see that I was happy, not when things went smoothly for any lengthy term, but when, pendulum-like, I was swung, backwards and forwards, for worry to mental ease. The relief of reaching calm waters after each storm was my nearest approach to definable happiness.

In terms of happiness the red-letter days in my life were not the showy months when tangible successes were won, or when I imagined I had attained some coveted objective. Striving, rather than succeeding, was the happier experience of the two, as now, so long after, I know to be the case.

I have no doubt that to have an aim in view, at once honourable and unselfish, creditable to both heart and conscience, and faithfully to pursue that aim, is, as so many poets have sung, to come as near to happiness as is humanly possible.

Perfect happiness I have never found; and I have yet to be convinced that it has fallen to the lot of any man. People who have boasted of being perfectly happy were victims of hallucination. That they felt themselves really happy is a matter of debate, for genuine happiness is unconscious happiness, realisable only, as I have already urged, in retrospect.

To remind ourselves we are happy is surely to threaten the peace of mind on which it is based, and, like happiness that is hotly chased, to find it receding before us. I may be wrong, but I speak from my own experience.

Happiness, I maintain, is oblivion of self and the passing hour. That is why men and women whose work is pleasing enough wholly to absorb them are happy; why, amongst other reasons, the religious and charitably-minded, who in goodly acts discover an engrossing occupation, are markedly happy.

Not until I retired and was faced with the prospect of idle leisure did I discover the extent to which happiness and hard work travel in harness. Foolishly I used to imagine the reverse—that only when one was quit of work was one happy. To-day I suppose it is true that I seek to be more industrious than ever.

FROM LITTLE JOYS.

Though the years had to accumulate before the truth dawned on me, now I know that out of little joys the greatest moments of happiness are born. Life—Addison, the famous essayist, I have been most contented in the company of a few select friends, overjoyed to share their conversation.

Nor have the exalted ones of this earth found that Glory's thrills offer them more satisfaction than the everyday pleasures which are the common privilege of the humblest of mankind. In the eve of her long reign, Queen Victoria was happy copying with still supple fingers a pattern of crochet-work, or listening with rapt ears while a novel of Marlon Crawford was being read over to her.

Friends of the ex-Empress Eugenie have told me that towards

A LIFE OF CRIME

By Ed. Kelly, Public Enemy No. 1.

THE advantages of a life of crime are so obvious that it is a wonder that we did not take up the profession earlier.

We refer to the fact that we have to appear before Mr. Wynne Jones this morning in connection with a little unpleasantness with Inspector Saunders about our car.

As we have no money to pay a fine, we anticipate that we will at least not have to write for this column for the next fortnight.

You must come up and see us sometime, and bring some flowers, and beer, and cheese.....for the warders.

Actually, we would have taken up the life of a criminal much sooner in life if it weren't for the risk of accidents.

Another drawback is the hours you have to work, especially if you are a burglar.

It has been said that burglary is a safe job. This is untrue. On our first burglary we smeared the safe with gallinise, or "soup," as they call it in the trade, threw a match at it, and then went for a long walk. When we came to, there was a rather deep and ragged hole where the safe used to be, and that was all.

We advertised for the safe, without result. We suspect that some dishonest person had found it and kept it for a birdcage or something.

Burglars make very good husbands. Through constant practice they become adept at getting home at all hours of the night without bumping the furniture or arousing the goldfish. This annoys some wives.

As a matter of fact, any woman whose husband has got away with something without giving her the opportunity to nag him about it has a legitimate grievance, which should be sufficient grounds for divorce even in Hongkong.

We think burglars are not fairly treated in this Colony. There should be a Kindness-to-Burglars Week.

Even if a man does break into the Chartered Bank vault, after all, it's not his vault. (Order!)

Then again, they have a very strict code of honour. When pinched, they never dump their buddies (meaning, of course, they never rat on their cobbors).

This explains the term "Silence in the caught," which you have all heard at some time or the other.

Bag snatchers have a hard life. We know one poor chap who was doing real well about three years ago, but met with a frightful bit of bad work. He tried to snatch a bag from a woman and she hung on to it. He couldn't get the bag away from her, so he had to take the woman as well. Even then she still clutched it, and the finish up was that he had to marry her.

Now he's practically on the bread line. He works his fingers to the bone all day snatching bags, and she picks his pockets while he's asleep. Enough to drive a man to totalitarianism.

This, by the way, provides us with a moral which will save any aspersions casting. Our character is crumbling slightly at the edges already, and we cannot afford to have any further damage done to it.

When you have made your money, quit the game and reform. Learn to play a harp. Become a tripan and live on the Pank. Start a campaign about Lower tram stations. Cultivate the company of wealthy and distinguished people. Then, if you're over feeling a bit penurious, you've got the stuff laid on.

Don't forget that retribution will overtake you. Take the case of our old pal Dillinger. In eleven hold-ups he managed to get about $400,000. He deposited it for safe keeping in the National Prudential Western Trading and Commercially Rural Trust Fund and Banking Corporation Inc. The very next day a scoundrel of a manager robs Dillinger and a few other people of no account and leaves for Hongkong, where he became a broker and the bank is broke. From broke to broke.

Which just goes to show....We mean to say that it proves beyond all shadow of doubt.....anyway, it just shows you. Don't it?

Ah, well! We suppose we'd better trot across to Kowloon and see our friend Mr. Wynne Jones now.

Don't forget. Flowers, and beer, and cheese.....For the warders!

"And the funny part of it is that I married her before I knew she was such a good cook."

GENERAL STRIKE IN SAN FRANCISCO

LORRIES OVERTURNED: CITY GETS READY FOR "SIEGE"

MENACING SITUATION

San Francisco, July 12. A general strike of all workers in the city appears certain to develop.

Complete paralysis threatens, and there are serious indications that another desperate outbreak of violence will occur.

The walk-out has already commenced on a big scale and isolated acts of violence against workers who have failed to join the sympathy strike have already occurred.

Over 4,500 teamsters, in accordance with the decision of the beginning of the week, downed tools early this morning and joined the longshoremen and maritime workers in the strike.

LORRIES OVERTURNED.

Lorry-drivers are being attacked and many lorries have been overturned and strewn about the roads.

Housewives are now preparing as if for a long siege, storing large quantities of tin foods and stocking up their larders with all necessities.

MILITARY PREPARE.

Another strike in sympathy with the longshoremen has occurred in an unexpected quarter. One hundred and twenty-five butchers, controlling the city's entire wholesale meat supplies, have struck work and left the slaughter-houses.

The tramway employees to-day voted by a majority of 700 to 78 in favour of a general strike.

BUTCHERS STRIKE.

The military in the city have been reinforced and with the National Guard are prepared for any emergency.

The atmosphere in the city is extremely tense. A United Press message, copyright, announces that the U.S. Army's proposed demonstration flight to Alaska has been postponed until late July, owing to the difficulties experienced in catching supplies, as a result of the longshoremen's strike on the Pacific Coast.

ASLEEP IN GIRLS' SCHOOL

OLD OFFENDER SENT TO PRISON

"I went there to sleep," said Chan Sam, a man with 13 convictions for thefts, when charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones, this morning, with being loitering in No. 12 Peace Avenue last evening.

Sergeant Kennedy said the place was occupied by the To Shau Girls' School. At 9.50 p.m., defendant was found by a teacher stretched out underneath a seat.

His Worship (to defendant): Why did you go there?

Defendant: I went to sleep because it was empty.

He was sentenced to three months.

On a charge of returning from banishment, sentence of one year was passed, to run concurrently with the first term.

DAY BY DAY NEWS IN BRIEF

NOTHING IS MORE EASY THAN TO DECEIVE ONE'S SELF, AS OUR AFFECTIONS ARE SUTILE PERSUADERS.—Demosthenes.

Richard, the younger son of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, will arrive here from Home on the P. & O. liner, Rarapua, on July 25.

His Excellency the Governor and Lady Peel, accompanied by Capt. R. F. Walter, A.D.C., were guests of His Honour the Chief Justice, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor and Mrs. MacGregor to dinner, last Tuesday.

On charges of forgery of two documents, attempting to obtain two chickens and three pairs of pigeons from the Kung Chan Poultry stall and attempting to obtain three catfishes from the stall of the Yick Lee stall, Central Market, Ho Kwan, unemployed, aged 27, was fined $15 or three weeks' hard labour in default by Mr. Macfadyen in the Central Magistracy this morning. Detective-Sergeant Baldwin stated that defendant alleged the cheques were written by a man employed at the China Emporium, but all knowledge of this was denied by the man.

COLONIAL FINANCE

SELF-SUFFICING IN MOST CASES

London, July 12. A glowing picture of improved financial conditions in the Colonies was given in the House of Commons to-night.

Sir Philip Cunliffe-Lister, Secretary of State for the Colonies, during the debate on the Colonial Estimates, quoted the cases of Uganda, Mauritius, Gibraltar, Gilbert and Ellis Islands, Cyprus and Kenya as among a number of Colonies which a few years ago were drawing largely on their resources but who were now producing balanced budgets.

Sir Philip, referring to Ceylon, said that the Colony enjoyed an enormous advantage in having rubber and tea, representing three-quarters of her exports, covered by schemes designed to raise prices to a remunerative level.

TEA PROFITS.

The tea scheme, he said, had been working admirably. Not a single consumer had objected. Before the scheme, even the most efficient companies were losing money. To-day every reasonably managed company was making profits.

He recalled that in the Malay States, a deficit of nearly $11,000,000 in 1932 had been reduced to a deficit of $3,000,000, which was a remarkable achievement at a time when prices of some of the most important commodities were falling.

As regards rubber, it had taken the government a long time to get an effective scheme, but the present scheme was in such a state of administrative preparedness that within a few weeks of its announcement, it was possible to carry it out in all countries concerned.

The tin scheme had put up prices to a remunerative level and was keeping them steady.—Reuter.

GENERAL IMPROVEMENT.

London, July 12. The Colonial Secretary, Sir Philip Cunliffe Lister, referred to the marked improvement in the budgetary position of the great majority of the British Colonies when the House of Commons this evening went into Committee of Supply on the current year grants.

He said that those Colonies unable to balance their budgets were reduced from £1,035,000 to £505,000. Among the Colonies which a few years ago were drawing on their resources to balance their budgets, and were now producing balanced budgets, he instanced Uganda, Gambia, Zanzibar, the Gold Coast, Mauritius, Gibraltar and Kenya. Others had largely reduced their deficits.

North Eastern Rhodesia had reduced its deficit of £170,000, to one of £39,000. Nigeria, with a deficit of over £1,300,000 in 1932, had reduced it to £235,000. The Federal Malay States had also largely reduced their deficit.

SALARY CUTS.

These results had been achieved, firstly, by drastic economies in the Estimates and the cost of administration, in connection with which he paid a tribute to the Colonial services for the way they had stood up to drastic cuts in salaries and had faced the difficulties of bad times.

The policy of establishing a preferential market for the Colonies in the Empire and for the Empire in the Colonies had worked extremely well, and encouragement of efficient production and marketing had also played its part.

Referring to various regulation schemes, he said, the tin scheme was in successful operation and the tea scheme was now working very satisfactorily.

RUBBER SCHEME.

With regard to rubber, they had to be satisfied that they had a scheme which was administratively possible and was elastic in its readiness to respond to increasing demand. They were also determined that they should have the scheme so fully worked out that it would follow immediately decisions being taken. Such a state of administrative preparedness was reached that within a few weeks of the decision being announced, it was possible to carry it out in all the countries concerned.

KENYA PROBLEMS.

Referring to Kenya, the Minister said the Government approved of the recommendation of the Kenya Land Commission that large additions should be made to the native reserves. They also accepted the recommendation that the boundaries as extended should be defined by Order-in-Council, as that would give a much greater sense of security than the appointment of any Commission. With regard to the granting of mining leases, the commission recommended a method more convenient and more consonant with native sentiments and wishes. This recommendation the Government had accepted and had given instructions that an Ordinance should be introduced forthwith to enable mining leases to be issued in the way Commission themselves recommended. Legislation would be carried through as rapidly as possible.—British Wireless.

COURT SUSPICION

THE FRANCIS LEE CASE

SPECIAL VISIT TO ASYLUM

When the case against Francis Lee, of 15 Robinson Road, was mentioned before Mr. Hamilton, at the Central Magistracy this morning, Mr. T. P. K. Komble, appearing for defendant, stated that he understood Lee had been sent to the Mental Hospital on the orders of Dr. Thomas, of the Government Civil Hospital, and was likely to remain there for a week or ten days.

Mr. Hamilton said he had information that Lee had booked his passage out.

Mr. Komble said he knew nothing about it.

Mr. Hamilton:—I take a very serious view of the Lee family twisting and turning this case to obstruct justice. If this man is in the asylum, someone must have put him there, and I want that person's testimony.

Mr. Komble said that since Lee's last appearance in Court, he had been doing some peculiar things. He was a very difficult person to deal with.

Inspector Nicol interposed, saying it would not take ten minutes for him to go to the Mental Hospital and see whether Lee was there.

Mr. Hamilton:—See that he is not allowed to go out, even for a walk. If that man gets out of custody, there will be serious trouble for somebody.

Mr. Komble said he would accompany Inspector Nicol to the Mental Hospital.

STILL IN ASYLUM.

Returning after about quarter of an hour, Mr. Komble said Lee was at the Hospital.

Inspector Nicol added that Lee would be there for seven days.

It will be recalled that Lee faces two charges of having driven car No. 2382 without a licence, and having driven it without the permission of the owner, Mr. B. A. Proulx, the well-known jockey. The car was reported missing by Mr. Proulx, and was not traced until a week later, when it was found hidden in the long grass off the beach at Shek-O.

The case was remanded for a week, with the same bail of $1,500.

OLD WOMAN KILLED BY BICYCLE

Rider Charged With Failing To Stop

How an aged Chinese woman died as the result of being knocked down by a bicycle was related at the Kowloon Magistracy this morning, when Chiu Sheung was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones with failing to stop after an accident.

Traffic-inspector Saunders said defendant was riding a bicycle on Tai Nan Street on July 7 when he knocked down a woman aged 75. He ran away and was caught by a pedestrian 150 yards away.

The woman died from broken ribs and congestion of the lungs. Defendant probably ran away.

His Worship: He could not have known she was so badly hurt, could he?

Inspector Saunders: No.

MELBOURNE CELEBRATIONS

It has been decided to invite the local Mayors of the other capital cities of Australia to attend the Centenary Celebrations as official guests of the Melbourne City Council. No details as to the extent either of time or expenditure were finalised, but the principle of inviting the Lord Mayors was endorsed. They will enjoy similar privileges to those which will be granted to the official guests of the Centenary Council and the State and Federal Governments.

cepted the recommendation that the boundaries as extended should be defined by Order-in-Council, as that would give a much greater sense of security than the appointment of any Commission. With regard to the granting of mining leases, the commission recommended a method more convenient and more consonant with native sentiments and wishes. This recommendation the Government had accepted and had given instructions that an Ordinance should be introduced forthwith to enable mining leases to be issued in the way Commission themselves recommended. Legislation would be carried through as rapidly as possible.—British Wireless.

INCIDENT AT CASTLE PEAK

On his return home to the Sai Chak Lam Monastery yesterday after a trip to Hongkong, Yui Sim underwent an experience which shook his monkish calm and brought his philosophic mind rudely to earth.

Two men approached him on an isolated hillside path at Castle Peak. He recognised them as being casual labourers whom he had previously employed, and readily answered them when they asked if he had other work for them. This turned out to be only a pose, for, without further preamble, the two set on him, one with a bamboo pole and the other with a wooden chopper. The one armed with the chopper made a sweeping swipe at his legs which the monk adroitly avoided. He had his purse containing $50 in notes wrenched from his girdle, and in his hurry to escape further attention, tumbled a distance of 30 feet down the hillside and badly injured his hand.

Wm. S.T. Louie, of the Kowloon Motor Bus Company, was fined $5 at the Kowloon Magistracy by Mr. Wynne-Jones this morning for falling to keep bus No. 694 in a good state of repair. Sergeant Scrim said he stopped the bus one day as it was making a lot of noise, because the drum cover was rattling. He told the driver to have it fixed, but when he saw it again the next day, it had not been fixed. In imposing the fine, his Worship remarked that it was probably the fault of a lazy foreman.

GOSANO BROTHERS AND BELTRAO TO JOIN RECREIO

SERIOUS LOSS FACING ST. JOSEPH'S

POSSIBLE EXODUS OF MAJORITY OF THEIR LEADING PLAYERS

CLUB WILL CARRY ON AVERS MR. GOLDENBERG

(By "Veritas").

THE Club de Recreio is to make a big attempt to return to its former glory in the Hongkong football league this coming season, and to this end, A. V. and Bernie Gosano as well as Beltrao will be transferring effections back to their old-time love.

For two seasons the Recreio have been struggling to make bricks without straw, and have bravely stuck to the heart-breaking job of championship replay match with the Borderers, will be hard hit, but it is expected that they will carry on.

The Saints, however, may be confronted with the problem of seeing other prominent players follow the Gosano's to the Recreio. Although it is learned that Gomes, Souza, Elms, Ward, Rocha and Costa, at least, are staying with St. Joseph.

Certain it is the Portuguese will be a powerful team next season. They have already several young players who developed enormously last year and who maintaining a place in the first division with a "shadow" team.

But 1934-35 season promises to be a boom for the Portuguese club, which is assured of the assistance of the Gosano brothers, and Beltrao, while other erstwhile members of the Recreio, now with St. Joseph's, may throw in their lot again with the King's Park outfit.

The exodus of the Recreio's leading players in 1932 was due to differences of opinion between them and the committee's methods of management. These will be of inestimable value in the future. With the promised rejuvenation of the Recreio and South China, approaching football season should provide interest in plenty.

I asked Mr. Archie Goldenberg, manager of the St. Joseph's Club this morning if he had heard of the contemplated return of the Gosanos and Beltrao to the Recreio next season.

He replied that he had heard of it as a rumour but did not think any definite decision had been reached by the players.

ST. JOSEPH'S WILL CARRY ON

have now been smoothed over, and the club is contemplating a highly successful season.

St. Joseph's, who last year finished runners-up in the first division following a

"In the event of them leaving you, will St. Joseph's carry on next season?" I asked.

"Yes," replied Mr. Goldenberg, "they definitely will."

Stallard's Victory Over 68 Miles

P. T. Stallard (Wolverhampton Wheelers) won the World's Cycling Championship Trial at Brooklands last month, when he beat J. N. Bainbridge (Liverpool) by the narrow margin of 1 1/2 sec. (six lengths). W. K. Bicknell (Bath Road) was third, another three lengths behind, with A. O. Jones (Stockton) fourth. Stallard covered the 68 miles course in 2 hr. 57 min. 46 sec., averaging approximately 23 m.p.h. Eighty-one riders started, but the hot pace set up by the leaders, who were travelling at 25 m.p.h., soon eliminated the stragglers, and punctures and crashes brought the field down to only 20 finishers. None of the crashes was serious, the worst case being J. K. Tatton (Wolverhampton), who was taken to hospital suffering from cuts and abrasions.

A FINE FINISH. Stallard and Bicknell broke away from the field at 11 laps and established a lead of 200 yards; but they were caught after two laps. Eleven riders remained in the leading group at the commencement of the last lap and, coming into the finishing straight with half a mile to go, L. J. Ross (Liverpool) was leading. Then Stallard made a supreme effort, jumped into a six lengths lead, and held it to the line. Of the 53 intermediate prizes Stallard won 11, E. A. Johnson (Belle Vue) 5, H. A. Paget (Bristol) 4, L. J. Ross 4, W. K. Bicknell 4, and the remainder were shared between 17 riders.

Last year's winner, J. J. Salt (Liverpool), retired before the finish, and another faded rider, C. Holland (Midland), punctured twice and finished 16th. Punctures also eliminated P. Wyld (Derby) and W. Harvell (Poole).

Result:

1. P. T. Stallard (Wolverhampton), 2 hr. 57 min. 46 sec.; 2. J. N. Bainbridge (Liverpool), 2 hr. 57 min. 47 1/2 sec.; 3. W. K. Bicknell (Bath Road), 2 hr. 57 min. 48 sec.; 4. A. O. Jones (Stockton); 5. F. H. Dean (Cornwall).

Bernie Gosano, clever outside right, who has decided to follow his brother's footsteps, and play for the Recreio next football season.

WINNER TAKE ALL: £10,000. SIDE-BET

New York, June 16. Carnera wants to fight Max Baer, who deprived him of the world championship in New York on these terms:

Winner to take all; and with a side bet of £10,000. Ex-ray photographs of Carnera's foot and leg show to-day that he was fighting his battle against Max Baer with a fractured ankle bone and a torn ligament.

The defeated champion says that he received the injuries when felled by Baer's savage opening attack.

He was never hurt by the punches, he says. He saw every one of them coming, but a man cannot prevent himself from being pushed all over the place when he has only one leg.

Arsenal Adopt A Nursery

BRACING MARGATE SELECTED

Negotiations for Margate to be adopted by Arsenal as a nursery are now completed and signed. The agreement operates for two years and promising young players spotted by Mr. Peter McWilliam will be sent to Margate to be coached by a manager who will be appointed by Arsenal. Margate will run two teams, one in the Southern League, Eastern and Central sections, and the other in the Kent League. Some of the Arsenal players may also train during the week at Margate instead of Highbury, to get the benefit of the bracing seaside air.

A number of well-known players have applied for the position of manager at Margate, and whoever is appointed will commence his duties at the end of the month.

BADMINTON

CHAMPIONSHIP MEETINGS

The dates for the four National Badminton championship meetings to be held in the British Isles during the 1934-5 season have been arranged.

The Welsh Championship meeting leads the way, and will be played at Llandudno from December 3 to 8. The Scottish Championships are fixed for January 17, 18, and 19, in Glasgow, and the Irish in Dublin from February 7 to 9. The All-England Championships will be held at the Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, from March 4 to 9.

The number of overseas governing bodies will be increased by the formation of the Badminton Association of India, and the Federated Malay States Badminton Association. These two new associations, it is understood, will affiliate to the International Badminton Federation when formed. It is curious that India has not had a Badminton governing body before now, for Badminton was first played in that part of our Empire in the early seventies, when that veteran sportsman, Colonel Arthur Hill, President of the Badminton Association, was introduced to the game in 1871, at Calcutta.

DERBYSHIRE DO WELL

AUSTRALIANS SCORE 255

BRADMAN SCORES QUICK 71

London, July 12. Derbyshire performed creditably against the Australians to-day, dismissing them for 255, and scoring 74 for two in their second innings.

Nevertheless the county team are still 36 runs in arrears, and may have difficulty in saving the game.

Care-free batting by Bradman (71), Barnett (48), Woodfull (44) saw the Australian over night score advanced from 122 for 4 to 255 all out.

Beat Shameen Club In Close Match

Canton, July 12. A friendly tennis match was played between St. John's University, Shanghai and Shameen Lawn Tennis Club on the Shameen courts yesterday. St. John's won the match by three rubbers to two.

MEN'S SINGLES.

G. Bodker beat K. H. Wong 6-2, 6-3.
C. A. Wright beat A. C. Ma 6-4, 5-7, 7-5.
Y. S. Tong beat R. P. Newell 6-3, 6-3.

DOUBLES.

K. H. Wong & Y. S. Tong beat C. E. Watson & R. S. Walsham 6-3, 6-4.
Y. C. Kwok & Y. Chan beat C. E. Whitmore & G. E. Hanford 6-4, 6-3.

Bodker had not difficulty in beating K. H. Wong, who appeared to be rather tired, and throughout the match gave very feeble services.

Wright would have secured his victory very much more easily had he played a less defensive game, since he was obviously the stronger and better player. "Red" Newell put up a hard fight and was not beaten so easily as the score would give one to imagine.

DISAPPOINTING DOUBLES.

The doubles were disappointing, and it is pity neither Bodker nor Newell played in the doubles. C. E. Watson and R. S. Walsham should have won their match, but Walsham was not playing carefully enough, and thus lost a number of points.

The players in the second doubles games were fairly evenly matched. The game being merely a friendly one Bodker and Newell did not play in the doubles in order to give others a chance, though if the two champions had played there is no doubt that both doubles would have been won by Shameen.—Our Own Correspondent.

INTERPORT SWIM

Shanghai Invitation Accepted

At a meeting held at the Victoria Recreation Club last evening to consider the invitation of the Shanghai Amateur Swimming Association for a local team to be sent north for the renewal of the annual Interport gala between the two ports it was decided to form a selection committee of two representatives from the V.R.C. and one member each from the Clubs attending the meeting. It was also decided that any further Clubs joining at a later date would have to abide by the decision of the committee.

There were present at the meeting Mr. P. K. D'Almada (chairman), Messrs. J. H. Ayles, C. Rosa Pereira, H. Hyndman, J. Ross and G. J. Cooke (V.R.C.), A. G. Poon (Y.M.C.A.), Lo G. Hin (Chinese Athletic Association), Leung Tien-nang (S.C.A.A.) and Lieut. Moon (Army).

It was stated that the invitation had been accepted and that Tientsin and Yokohama had also been invited to take part in the Interport events. The gala would be held during the second week in September.

GIANTS DEFEATED

PLAYER INJURES ANKLE

New York, July 12. Three double headers were played in the National League to-day. The Giants had to share the spoils with the Pirates, while the teams finished a leg all in the other two encounters.

An accident to Paul Dean of the Cardinals greatly handicapped them in their second match with the Phillies. Dean injured his ankle in the third innings of the first match, and had to retire from the game.

There was a small programme in the American League, where the Yankees lost to Detroit, and Chicago Red Sox won our Philadelphia Athletics.

COLLINGS' CARD OF 62

R. Collings (8) defeated S. MacNider (11) in the semi-final of the Summer Cup at the Kowloon Golf Club yesterday afternoon by scores of 4 and 3. By virtue of his win, Collings will meet R. Henderson in the final.

Yesterday's game produced some good golf, Collings' score being 34+36=70, making a net score of 62. Par for the course is 66. Collings only lapse was at the first hole where he had a six.

Up to the 14th hole where Collings was leading MacNider by four up, his score was 19, par for which is 18, and the match ended at the 15th hole, where both were down for par 3s.

MacNider's score was 38+39=77 (net 65).

PLAYING 180 HOLES IN ONE DAY

Golf wagers are in the air. Following the effort of Capt. R. F. H. Norman, who played 10 rounds of the Stoke Poges course non-stop in under 1,000 strokes, comes news of another long-distance attempt.

Mr. G. D. Morris, of Walmer and Kingsdown Golf Club, has accepted a challenge—believed to be £500—that he will play 10 rounds of 18 holes on the club's course in one day, averaging 90 strokes a round.

Boroy for the course is 72, and Mr. Morris' handicap is 11, so he will have to play to within 7 strokes of his usual form for the whole 10 rounds.

Sheffield Wednesday have transferred T. Leach, their international centre-half-back, to Newcastle United.

Leach has been capped for England against Scotland, Ireland and Wales. He has also assisted the English League against the Scottish League. The transfer fee is a big one.

Manchester United F. C. have signed on Thomas Jones, an outside left from Sheffield Wednesday, formerly with Tranmere Rovers. In 1932 Jones gained an international cap for Wales against Ireland.

Easy Tennis Win For The K.C.C.

MORE POINTS FOR THE C.R.C.

The Chinese Recreation Club, who are strongly fancied for the "B" Division Tennis championship, enhanced their chances when they inflicted a crushing defeat on the Hongkong Cricket Club on the latter's courts yesterday afternoon by nine sets to nil.

Scores:
Y. W. Lee and C. Y. Tao (Chinese R.C.) beat D. C. Dunham and R. S. Traill 6-4, beat G. S. Gamble and T. Monaghan 6-2, beat V. R. Gordon and J. Pote-Hunt 6-2.

P. F. Choy and M. K. Lau (Chinese R.C.) beat Dunham and Traill 6-1, beat Gamble and Monaghan 6-4, beat Gordon and Pote-Hunt 6-4.

L. P. Hon and F. K. Lau (Chinese R.C.) beat Dunham and Traill 6-0, beat Gamble and Monaghan 6-3, beat Gordon and Pote-Hunt 7-5.

KOWLOON BEAT SOUTH CHINA.
Playing on the home courts the Kowloon Cricket Club defeated South China in the "B" Division by seven sets to two.

Scores:
G. C. Burnett and R. H. Lewis (Kowloon) beat Y. S. Ung and C. H. Ung 6-4, beat M. K. Ma and N. C. Young 6-2, beat C. H. Wong and Y. F. Chow 6-3.

S. A. Gray and L. Oppenheim (Kowloon) beat Ung and Ung 6-3, beat Ma and Yung 6-3, lost to Wong and Chow 2-6.

C. L. Stapleton and F. R. Zimmern (Kowloon) beat Ung and Ung 6-4, beat Ma and Yung 6-3, lost to Wong and Chow 2-6.

RECREIO BEAT GRADUATES.
The Club de Recreio gained a convincing victory at home over the Graduates Association, winning by nine sets to all.

L. A. de Silva and J. J. Remedios (Recreio) beat H. N. Chong and Y. C. Pao 6-1, beat D. K. Samy and S. C. Chung 6-3, beat K. C. Yeh and S. A. M. Sopher 6-3.

A. A. Remedios and W. A. Reed (Recreio) beat Chong and Pao 6-2, beat Samy and Chung 6-4, beat Yeh and Sopher 6-3.

A. Ribeiro and A. N. Silva (Recreio) beat Chong and Pao 6-3, beat Samy and Chung 6-2, beat Yeh and Sopher 6-2.

Although Macfarlane led on the eighth head by 12 shots to two, Basto staged a remarkable recovery, and with two fours reduced the lead. He then went on to score regularly, and won by 21 shots to 17 on the 21st head.

Basto actually scored on one head less than his opponent, but he registered two fours and one three to his opponent's one three. The winners finished the match by laying two.

A. E. Coates, of the Crailsheim Cricket Club, defeated his fellow clubmate W. V. Field on the Civil Service green by 19 shots to 13, on the 17th head. Coates scored on eleven heads, registering one four, while Field scored on six heads with one four.

L. A. Gutierrez, a former singles champion, defeated J. J. Basto by 21 shots to 8 on the Crailsheim Cricket Club green. The match terminated on the 18th head, with the winner scoring on 12 heads with two threes.

In a tie in the Pairs championship, B. Basto and J. E. Noronha defeated W. E. Hollands and J. J. Gregory by 19 shots to 12 on the 21st head. The winners registered a four and a three, while the losers obtained one three. The winners scored on 13 heads and the losers on eight.

Owing to the fact that Mr. W. C. Simpson is in hospital, the match between he and W. Gill in the singles bowls championship, arranged for yesterday afternoon, has been postponed.

21 YEARS AGO
Extracts From the "Telegraph" Files

The following extracts are from the Hongkong Telegraph for the week ended July 12th, 1913

The rate of dollar on demand was 1.11.9/10d.

The body of Captain E. H. Pratt, R.N.R., of the China Merchants S.S. Chi Yuen, who accidentally fell overboard, was found in the harbour.

The writer of a special article advocated "Steamer Nights" in Hongkong. He urged that private enterprise should charter a river steamer and arrange bi-weekly trips during summer in the waters of the Colony, with music, refreshments and other attractions.

Mr. B. L. Frost was appointed Hon. Secretary and Treasurer of the Lawn Bowls League, on the departure from the Colony of Mr. Alex Ramsay.

The Land Investment Co. declared an interim dividend of $3.50 per share.

COMPETITION PHOTOGRAPHY

AN INTERESTING TALK

The first of a series of instructive talks under the auspices of the Hongkong International Photographic Society was held in the South China Morning Post Board Room last evening, when Mr. P. A. Dragon spoke on "Competition Photography," with special reference to the Hongkong Telegraph's Amateur Photographic Competition.

In the course of a most interesting talk, Mr. Dragon said:—"The main object of the management of the Hongkong Telegraph in holding annual photographic competitions is to stimulate interest in this very popular hobby, and thereby to improve the standard of amateur photography in the Colony and in the Far East, the Telegraph being the only paper in the Far East which runs annual competitions for amateurs in general, especially for those beginners who have not the privilege to belong to any club or photographic society. If we are to judge from the previous competitions, the first of which was held four years ago, the Telegraph is to be congratulated on what it has done."

Mr. Dragon went on to refer to past competitions held by the Telegraph and spoke of the handsome prizes now being offered. He proceeded to deal with the various Sections in the present Competition and offered valuable hints in regard to each.

ORIGINALITY DANGER.
Dealing with bathing and picnic pictures, he said:—"Originality of subject counts for much in competition photography. In fact, originality often scores, but just a word of warning. Last year the judges commented that most of the competitors attempted photographs from strange angles and that most of them missed their purpose completely. The moral is that if you photograph from a strange angle you may produce a picture that strikes the eye at first sight, but on gazing longer at the picture, the novelty wears off."

"Stunt photography is good but pictorialism (the appeal of the photo as a subject that can be hung on the walls of any room) is better. Strange angled photography is unforgotten photography, and like many new things may come into its own one day, so let us not entirely despise it, and if we try it let us not overdo it."

CHINESE STUDIES.
Referring to Section Three (Chinese Studies, Faces and Figures), Mr. Dragon urged competitors to deal with all types. He also uttered a word of warning in this connection, saying:—"Beware of the mistake of introducing, deliberately or by accident, a non-Chinese, or something non-Chinese into the picture. I remember a competition in which an otherwise prize winning picture of a scene in Kowloon City was passed over in favour of another less striking, simply because in the picture was a lady in European clothes and carrying a European parasol. If judges were to choose between two subjects of Chinese faces, one subject wearing a Chinese hat and dress, and the other, Western clothes, they would vote for the former."

"Following this argument, a Chinese street scene or village scene, may be ruined by the appearance of an English advertisement on the walls of one of the houses."

Dealing with Section Four (Views, including Architecture and Street Scenes) Mr. Dragon said:—"Here the beginner is apt to send in a topographical record rather than a picture. Our harbour, Hongkong by Night, our Race Course, are beautiful. Every newcomer to this Colony is lavish with praise over them, but how many of us who dwell in Hongkong and who are familiar with these scenes feel the same?"

"Avoid taking postcard views. Rather go in for the tit-bits of the Colony. In all your pictures do not include too much. Study the work of well-known amateurs. In photographing landscapes or scenes, you will find that a part is better than the whole."

"There is also an inclination to label photos obviously taken at about three in the afternoon. 'Sunset,' perhaps 'Moonlight,' would be a better title. In this section if you wish to win a prize, do not go in for hackneyed subjects. Sunset have an appeal to all of us. (I still photograph them myself) but as subjects for competitions I think they are overdone. The same for junk studies."

SIZE AND KINDS.
In concluding his talk, Mr. Dragon said:—"Last of all comes the question of the size of prints to send in for competition. Any size to suit your purpose. In connection

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

YESTERDAY'S MARKET IRREGULAR

According to Messrs. Swan Culbertson and Fritz, the New York market was irregular yesterday. The Wall Street Journal reports:—"The market has been irregular with traders adopting an extra cautious attitude, apparently expecting a reaction, although there is nothing in the way of news to support their attitude. The market is probably awaiting action by the Stock Exchange Control Commission. Gold, silver and mining shares have ruled steady."

Curb stocks were irregular and bonds were also irregular. Most United States Government's issues were slightly downward. Industrial and utility issues were upward. Rails were irregularly higher. Foreign bonds were mixed. German issues have eased.

Wheat prices soared, but relinquished most of the gains due to profit-taking.

Silver futures were very dull, with a record of only six lots traded.

Messrs. Swan, Culbertson and Fritz's New York office reports:—"Stocks were in moderate supply, but with declines small in leased volume of trading. Business done 470,000 shares. Bank clearings for the week amounted to $4,740,000,000 compared with $5,369,000,000 for the same period last year. Brokers' Loans have decreased to $1,059,000,000. It is understood that the railroad rates in order to offset the recent increase in wages and the higher costs under the Pension Bill. Favourable factors are the strength of commodities and the sustained improvement in automobile sales. Offerings on the stock market will dry up on recessions. Unfavourable factors are department store sales during June declined from 77% to 73% of the 1923/25 average and steel operations in Youngstown holding around 50% of capacity. The Allegheny Steel Co. has declared a common dividend of 15 cents per share. The last dividend declared was in December, 1931 when the dividend was 5 cents per share per month."

Grain: There were heavy sales of flour. The general situation favours the belief of still higher wheat and corn prices. In the corn market there are rains in Illinois and Indiana. The rest of the Belt is having clear weather.

Cotton: The market was reactionary on Southern selling and on profit-taking. Showers in Texas are expected to be insufficient. Fears of further rainfall have checked any aggressive demand. The spot market is dull, with the basis firm. There are light showers in Texas. A forecast of the weather indicates cloudy weather with showers generally in the East, partly cloudy with possible showers in the Central Belt and fair weather in the West Belt, except possible showers in Southern Texas and the coast of East Texas.

Rubber: Prices are lower on moderate liquidation and on stop-loss orders here. The Trade showed a small interest in to-day's low levels, but the market was otherwise inactive. The primary markets are firm.

with the Telegraph competition I have been asked specially to emphasise the fact that every picture submitted, irrespective of size, receives due and careful consideration from the judges. Last year the judges spent over four hours judging the pictures, as they took the entries one by one and analysed them according to appeal of subject matter, to pictorial quality, and technique. Contact prints last year received awards, so if you cannot enlarge your pictures send in small prints.

"Of course, an enlargement catches the eye but a really good contact print in the eye of the judges stands a better chance because an enlargement can be controlled, whereas a contact print is not so easily controlled. In the printing process. As for paper to use, select the type that gives the best result. Glossy prints are not necessary, nor are titles, but a good title may turn the scale in your favour. Mounting is optional, but remember a mounted photo looks better. The same picture may be sent in for more than one section, but if this is done it is wise to send in duplicates as this facilitates judging and ensures your picture competing in the section for which you enter it."

"Do not send in a picture just because the picture pleases you. We have all some favourite pictures; they appeal to us because of their personal associations, but they may not appeal to the judges. It is a good plan to seek the advice of some impartial friend, before sending in your pictures. If you have movements and gadgets before not yet started taking pictures and making your first exposure. You intend doing so, my parting word are then on the way to success."

DO YOU KNOW WHEN YOU ARE REALLY HAPPY

the end of her long life she believed her happiest days to have been those spent slumming—disguised as an old woman—among the poor of Paris, learning how the submerged tenth lived.

Louis Philippe, away from his unstable throne, a private citizen again, wanted but the approval of his devoted wife, regarding the general course of his career, to be quite happy. What the world chose to think did not matter.

If it were only given to us at the onset to sense the happiness of small joys I remember how happy I was buying out of my own first earnings a suit of clothes. Dame Madge Kendal, I fancy, was never so happy as when, a child-player, catching sight of her nurse in the pit, she exclaimed across the footlights, "Oh, nurse, look at my new shoes!"

Rachel, the famous French tragedienne, who from singing in the streets rose to great fame and fortune, used to say that her happiest moment was when she was tricked out with a red velvet hat of her mother's own making.

THE OBVIOUS MORAL.

Alas! only when viewed in the prism of the years do these tiny joys take on their real significance, and are seen to belong to the pleasantest days of our existence.

"TELEGRAPH" ART SUPPLEMENT

More Competition
Pictures

A further batch of Competition photographs will appear in to-morrow's issue of the Telegraph Pictorial Supplement, including some of marked artistic merit.

In addition, there will be other interesting pictures, including Church of Christ in China delegates at a visit to the grave of Dr. Robertson Morrison in Macao, and a bridal group at the wedding of Mr. Henry Wing and Miss Josephine Chan.

Portraits of successful candidates in the Trinity College of Music examinations will also appear.

It were wise to draw the obvious moral—to make the most of the substantial present, gratefully enjoying the simple pleasures which lie to our hand. If we ignore the present, and concentrate wholly on the future, the chances are that we shall miss the happiness which is close by, and come no nearer the happiness which hangs tantalisingly ahead.

I have watched the countryman at his lunch of bread and cheese, washed down by a mug of beer, and I have said to myself: "He is happier than you are, because his wants are fewer." Through the years I have learnt that I am richer in peace of mind, not when I have striven to increase my possessions, but when I have limited my desires. Certainly a bunch of Cornish violets has proved a more gladsome sight for me than any elaborate orchids plucked from a nobleman's conservatory.

Step by step I have come to this philosophy of life (against which admittedly, being human, I sometimes transgress)—to be thankful for small mercies, for in them the real seeds of happiness are contained. Whatever one's lot, I am convinced, these small mercies are not withheld.

dispel his loneliness, a blind mendicant, for whom I have a sentimental regard, tells me he thinks of the days when the warm sun is on his face, and regular friends stop to entertain him with the small change of their remarks, and then he remembers how happy those days were. Standing by his side, frequently I feel myself rebuked by his far finer spirit, grieved to be reminded that, when in trouble I compared my state, it was not with his, but with that of men whom the world counted fortunate.

Poor Charlotte Bronte, an inspired schoolmiss in whose stern soul romance twice took root, in her last hours knew when life had been kindest to her. "I am not going to die now," she whispered to her husband. "He will not separate us—we have been so happy!"

Life may seem to drop into solemn or uneventful periods, yet what could be more foolish than to fritter away those seemingly dull days by hungering for more exciting spells? It may well be that in retrospect they are found the happiest intervals of all. Time, dropping the scales from our eyes, corrects our values.

HOW TO KEEP YOUR SKIN FRESH AND CLEAR IN SUMMER.

Pimples and other facial blemishes are unsightly at the best of times, but especially so during the summer months when the gay, bright colours of your clothes attract the eye. The first essential in order to have a clear fresh skin is to avoid constipation, for it is the poisons escaping from a congested food tract into the blood stream which cause boils, pimples and other facial blemishes.

Pinkettes, the tiny laxative pills, will keep you regular, aid digestion, tone up the liver, banish biliousness and sick headaches, make the breath pure and sweet, prevent boils and pimples, and keep you hale and hearty. Non-habit-forming and non-gripping, Pinkettes are the ideal laxative. Obtainable at all chemists.

By W. E. McKenney

Solution to Previous Contract ProblemWhen your partner makes an original bid in first or second position, and you also hold a big hand, I will admit that it is difficult to ask you to proceed cautiously with the bidding. However, during bidding will occasionally win, as was the case in to-day's hand.When South opened the bidding with one spade, North immediately counted him for three tricks.
Of course, if he had a six-card spade suit, he might have had only two and one-half tricks—but the average is three.North figured that, to make an original bid, South, his partner, has the ace of spades, the ace of hearts, the king of diamonds, and either the queen of spades or the queen of hearts. When South finds himself in a seven contract, he must try to make it.Today's Contract Problem South is declarer at four hearts. West opens his singleton spade. Declarer to make six hearts.

Solution in next issue.

The Play
With the queen of clubs opening, I believe the better play is a small club from dummy. The declarer can count two spade tricks, two diamond tricks, and two club tricks—six in all.Now if he can ruff two clubs, that will give him eight tricks, while four trump tricks will give him twelve in all. In the meantime, he may be able to squeeze a spade or a diamond trick.

So the safe play is to ruff the

DOG-BITE WAVE CONTINUES

FOUR NEW CASES
YESTERDAY

RABIES PERIL

The diseased animal belonged to Mr. G. A. V. Hall, of No. 7
Norfolk Road, Kowloon Tong.
One of the two other animals now placed under observation also belongs to Mr. Hall. The other is the property of Mr.
Hardwick, of No. 2 Norfolk Road.

While delivering a letter at No.
1 Robinson Road, the home of Mr.
Wilkinson, Li Ping-yuen, a postman, was bitten by Mr. Wilkinson's dog. The postman is receiving treatment at the Government Civil Hospital, while the dog has been removed to the depot at Kennedy Town.

FURTHER CASES.

A mason, Li Shing, was bitten
by a terrier belonging to Mrs.
Weight at No. 102 The Peak, and has been sent to the Government Civil Hospital for precautionary treatment. The dog was taken to the Kennedy Town depot.

Lee Loi, a lighter hand employed on "Eurus," which was lying at the Kowloon Naval Yard yesterday, was attacked and bitten severely by an Alsatian hound belonging to Sergeant Nash, of the Royal Naval Yard Police.
The victim is receiving treatment, while a report has also been made to the authorities.

Tang Tsai, a police mess enterer, was bitten by a dog belonging to Police Sergeant
Stewart when he went aboard
No. 4 Police launch yesterday.
The man went to the Kowloon Hospital to have his injury attended to. The dog is being placed under observation.

LISBON CAR SMASH

PRESIDENT'S WIFE
BADLY INJURED

TERRIFIC IMPACT

Lisbon, July 12.
Madame Carmona, wife of the President of Portugal, was seriously injured to-day in a shocking motor-car smash outside the capital.

Madame Carmona was motoring with her married daughter and her grand-children when they became involved in a violent collision with another car.

The impact was terrific.
Every occupant of both cars was injured, being pitched forcibly in all directions.

Madame Carmona was among the most critically injured of the victims. She was removed from the wreckage and rushed to hospital in an unconscious condition.—Reuter.

LONDON NAVAL TALKS

FRENCH DELEGATE RETURNING

London, July 12.
In the House of Commons tomorrow the Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, will make a statement on the recent London conversations with the French Foreign Minister, M. Barthou.

Conversations between the British and French naval experts preliminary to next year's Naval Conference have now been concluded. The French Minister of

THE FATE OF SVEN HEDIN

CAPTURE DOUBTED
BY SISTER

JUNE 18 LETTER

Stockholm, July 12.
The fact that the family of Sven
Hedin received a letter from him on July 9, dated Urumtsai, June 18, leads them to doubt the accuracy of the report that he has been captured by brigands.

They recall that he was captured by brigands in Chinese Turkistan some little time back and the famous explorer's sister expresses the opinion that the news of his previous adventure with brigands has only just filtered through to Peking overland and has, consequently, been regarded as a fresh capture.

Mr. Kierkegaard, a Danish employee of the Chinese Postal Service, stationed at Urumtsai, is now on holiday in Denmark and brought the letter from Sven
Hedin to his family.

He stated that Sven Hedin was,
master's house in Urumtsai awaiting patrol supplies.—Reuter.

A HOPE DISAPPOINTED?

It is just possible that the circumstances are as suggested by the explorer's sister, but the brief details known do not support
the view. The story of Hedin's capture some months ago was widely published in the Far East.
Furthermore, according to Reuter's Peking correspondent, the story did not reach Peking by an overland messenger, but was announced in a telegram received from Anshih and dated July 4.

Marine, M. Pietri, who accompanied M. Barthou to London, will, as at present arranged, leave for Paris to-morrow.—British Wireless
